

Proposed Centrum Labeled As 'Private Plan For Private Profit'

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln's proposed Centrum project was labeled Monday as "a private plan . . . for private profit."

The blast came from downtown property owner Pat Ash, one of several businessmen who appeared at a City Council hearing on the Centrum Redevelopment Plan, a 172-page document compiled by Chicago consultants Barton-Aschman.

Ash, a former councilman himself and owner of two lots on the 11th and O corner, said he would not oppose condemnation of the target block — from 11th to 12th, N to O — if the condemned land were to be used for some public purpose.

'Private Profit'

But he said he said the proposed parking garage and retail complex "is nothing more than a private plan by private promoters using public power for private profit."

Past critics have charged that the Centrum would primarily benefit Miller & Paine and Brandeis, two major department stores flanking the Centrum block.

Although city lawmakers did hear some testimony in favor of the beleaguered project, the bulk of the three-hour session was taken up by criticism of the Centrum's financing, city appraisals of affected properties and the plan itself.

The council gave itself three weeks to mull over the comments and the plan.

Property owners also challenged the council's decision last August declaring the block "blighted" and "substandard" and thus eligible for redevelopment under state law.

That ruling has resulted in seven lawsuits which may take up to two years to resolve. Many of the people facing the city in court brought their cases to the council Monday.

Pricetag Questioned

Ash charged that the city could not build the project for less than $12 to $15 million, far more than the $7.8 million pricetag set by Barton-Aschman.

Ash, also asked if the city would be hurting other street projects by using $2.3 million in highway user fees to help finance construction of the 1,050-car parking garage in the southern half of the block.

Ash claimed that Barton-Aschman's evaluation of his land as substandard was "100% wrong." Attorney Lloyd Marti, representing Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nefsky, who own Guarantee Clothing Co., demanded to know why the city would not provide appraisal figures for the property.

City Atty. Dick Wood said it is city policy not to release individual tract prices until the time the city sits down with the landowner at the negotiating table. Barton-Aschman set a $2.7 million figure for the total land cost.

'Sadly Lacking'

Mike Junker, a resident of the Bellvedere Apartments, 1124 N. said the plan was "sadly lacking" because it did not provide for housing a number of low income elderly people who live in the block.

Both Marti and Ash lamented the city's paying $25,000 to Barton-Aschman for the 172-page plan, which Ash charged "is the most vague, indefinite, mumbo jumbo that you (the council) have ever been asked to accept."

The report documents the consultant's findings on buildings' conditions, outlines procedures the city should follow in obtaining a developer for the merchandising portion of the block and details relocation assistance procedures.

Property owners also said they had been given no assurances by city officials that they would have a chance to relocate in the Centrum. The council indicated a willingness to amend the plan to provide such assurances.

While the council heard more unfavorable comments about the Centrum, which has been kicked about as a possible project for some seven years, some people favored its construction.

Dick White, chairman of the Downtown Advisory Committee, billed the Centrum as the catalyst needed to spur an overall facelift downtown.

Bob Magee, of the Lincoln Center Development Association, said additional parking spaces are vital to maintain a strong downtown.

Support for the project also came from the Park and Shop Association, the Downtown Lincoln Promotion Council and former councilman Carroll Thompson.

Wood told reporters after the three-hour hearing that a revenue bond ordinance will be placed on the council agenda Dec. 9 on first reading. The ordinance would authorize the issuance of $4 million in revenue bonds to help finance the parking garage.

Wood said early approval of that ordinance would give citizens an opportunity to mount a referendum drive to place that issue on the spring city election ballot.

Ambassador Hostage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philippine Ambassador Eduardo Z. Romualdez was held hostage in his office Monday and an aide was reported shot by a gunman demanding that his 24-year-old son be allowed to emigrate from the Philippines.

Philippine diplomat Jose Naldo identified the gunman as Napoleon Lechoco, a Filipino about 40, of suburban Oxon Hill, Md., who was demanding that his son still in the Philippines be allowed to join his family here.

An FBI spokesman indicated late Monday night that the siege at the embassy chancery could last for some time, although negotiations were continuing and Philippine authorities had agreed to release the son if the hostages were released.

Naldo identified Lechoco as head of the Filipino Political Action Committee in Washington. But neighbors also identified him as an active civic leader who is president of the Birchwood Citizens Association in Oxon Hill and the Federation of Park and Recreation Councils in Prince Georges County, Md.

Lechoco and his wife reportedly had moved to this country several years ago and six of their children joined them about a month ago after a travel ban was lifted by the Philippine government.

The man reported wounded was identified as Mario S. Lagdameo, economic attache at the embassy here and nephew of a former ambassador to the United States.

J.V. Cruz, a Philippine spokesman here, said President Ferdinand Marcos had given a guarantee that the Lechocos' son, under investigation in the Philippines, would be allowed to leave the country if Lechoco released the hostages.

However, William Lander, a special agent for the FBI, said Lechoco had been told his son would not be released until the ambassador was free.

Cruz also said the Philippine government would not press charges against Lechoco in U.S. courts. He said the offer was relayed to Lechoco by his wife, who was called to the chancery to help in the negotiations.

Lander said this was the first occupation of an embassy in the United States in which a hostage was taken, although there have been other incidents including sit-ins and bombings.

The U.S. Secret Service said two police officers inside the chancery made contact with Lechoco early in the evening. Later the State Department said FBI agents had joined the negotiations.

Naldo said Lechoco entered the chancery about 2:45 p.m. CST after requesting an appointment with Romualdez last week to meet with leaders of the Filipino community in the Washington area.

Lechoco was accompanied to Romualdez's office by Lagdameo, a black belt karate expert, Naldo said.

"The next thing we knew, three shots were fired," Naldo said. "Mario fell and we all had to go out."

COLOR This Bike Has Class

Seattle, Wash. (AP) — Lloyd Page apparently doesn't like simple things, especially when it comes to his 10-speed bicycle.

So he added a few extras: two horns, four tail lights, turn signals, 34 reflectors, a radio with three speakers and an earphone, extra seat padding, a "sissy bar" with three headrests and a backrest, water bottle, luggage case and three sets of handle bars.

And the 46-year-old Page says still to come is a windshield and a top with hinges so he can ride in the rain without getting wet.

"I'm not exactly creative," he says, "but I like to do things interesting, to put things together."

Emperor Greets President Ford

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito officially welcomed President Ford to Japan on Tuesday. A military band played the University of Michigan fight song and "Honor to President Ford," a song written for the occasion.

Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger later went into conference with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, who was in the emperor's reception party.

They were expected to concentrate on Korean unification, representation of the two Koreas in the United Nations and other international political and economic questions.

There were no women present at Ford's first meeting with the emperor. Mrs. Ford, recovering from cancer surgery, was unable to make the trip.

The historic first meeting in Japan between an American president and a Japanese emperor took place under clear and sunny skies, with security guards staring down from hotel windows overlooking the courtyard of the official guest house.

Other buildings near the palatial, European-style guest house, where Ford is staying during his five-day visit, also were under tight security. The courtyard's iron gates were locked.

The emperor's full-dress reception was the first official function of the President's visit, the symbolism of which he plans to use to strengthen already close U.S.-Japanese ties.

The visit began Monday afternoon with a flight into Tokyo through turbulent weather and a helicopter trip over a violent demonstration against the trip.

Shortly after Ford arrived, Japan National Railway Workers struck for more pay and better working conditions, and union officials said the walkout would tie up rail traffic and strand millions of commuters for at least 12 hours.

The U.S. Japanese talks will range over security and Kissinger's visit next week to mainland China, nuclear non-proliferation and oil.

Completely dependent on petroleum imports, Japan is eager for reassurances that Israel is being pressed to make concessions to the Arabs, thereby averting a second oil squeeze this winter.

Ford and Kissinger will attempt to pacify Japan by offering protection in any union of oil consuming nations.

Ford appeared solemn and somewhat uncertain as he stepped from the Spirit of '76 to the salute of howitzers at tightly guarded Tokyo International Airport.

Four Senators Hope To Be Speaker

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Three veteran senators have written their legislative colleagues seeking support for election as speaker of the 1975 Legislature.

They are Sens. Harold Simpson of Lincoln, Jules Burbach of Crofton and Leslie Stull of Alliance.

A fourth lawmaker, Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg, confirmed that he too is "interested" in the job, but plans no letter-writing campaign to get the post.

Simpson was a strong second-place finisher in the 1973 contest for speaker. Burbach came within a whisker of winning the honor in 1971.

In For 2 Sessions

The speaker chosen by legislators next January will hold the post for both the 1975 and 1976 sessions.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, the current speaker, bested Simpson on a 29-20 vote on 1973.

Two years earlier, Sen. William Hasebrook of West Point edged Burbach on a 25-23 vote.

The speaker presides over the Legislature in the absence of the lieutenant governor, and has a number of leadership duties, including the establishment of a daily agenda for the Legislature.

Senators have tended to bestow the title more as an honorary, than a leadership, role. Good fellowship has tended, in most cases, to rank ahead of leadership qualities when the vote was counted.

The quest for the speakership has also embroiled the Legislature in geographical and political considerations.

Duis believes the geographical factors tend to favor a candidate from western or central Nebraska this time.

Western Nebraska last claimed the office in 1967, when Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine was elected.

"Tradition shows we rotate it among the four old congressional districts," Duis said.

The old Omaha district has the post now. Hasebrook hails from the old northeast Nebraska district. And, in 1969, the Lincoln district claimed the office with the selection of Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly.

But records prior to 1967 indicate that the rotation is often broken.

The political considerations could hurt Burbach.

Although he is the candidate with the most years of legislative service, a factor working in his favor, he is also the only Democrat to seek the job.

With a Democratic governor and a Democratic lieutenant governor in office next year, senators could be reluctant to choose a Democratic speaker.

Record of Opposition
That factor might be mitigated by Burbach's record of political opposition to Gov. J. James Exon.

It was Burbach whom Exon barely defeated in the 1970 gubernatorial primary election. And it was Burbach who opposed Exon's lieutenant governor choice, Gerald Whelan, in the 1974 Democratic primary.

Simpson has developed a firm band in occasional rounds of presiding over the Legislature, but his strong ties to organized labor have cost him leadership votes in the past.

Stull has developed good relations with most senators, but his bid for a committee chairmanship was rejected by the 1973 Legislature, when it chose Sen. Ernest Chambers as chairman of the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

Duis, who currently is serving as chairman of the Rules Committee, received nine votes for speaker in 1971 before the runoff vote between Hasebrook and Burbach.

Lost Chairmanship
But Duis also lost the 1973 chairmanship he wanted when senators chose Sen. Fred Carstens to head the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee.

Burbach, 62, has been a senator for 13 years.

Stull, 66, has six years service. Duis, 58, counts 10 years in the Legislature.

Simpson, 48, who is seeking to become the first Lincoln senator elected to the speakership in 30 years, has been in the Unicameral for eight years.

Lewis Plans To Seek Major Tax Revisions

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue Monday said he plans to introduce major tax legislation in the 1975 Unicameral.

Lewis' proposals would shift the tax-setting authority from the State Board of Equalization to the Legislature, abolish the required 50-50 revenue balance between sales and income tax collections and free the corporate income tax from the individual income tax.

"It's time we make our rates consistent," he said. "Obviously, the income tax is a better reflection of a person's true ability to pay taxes."

"We shouldn't tax the things people find truly necessary and make it harder for them to provide for themselves."

Support Expected

Lewis' first proposal at least would win support from four members of the State Board of Equalization.

Last Friday, when the board cut the 1975 state income tax rate from 11% to 10%, Gov. J. James Exon, board chairman, suggested that the rate-making power should rest with those who appropriate the money, namely the Legislature.

Exon noted repeatedly that Nebraska is the lone state which has such a tax structure.

Only Secretary of State Allen J.

Beermann felt the present system was good.

In the past, however, the Legislature has resisted attempts to entrust it with the annual job of setting Nebraska tax rates.

The second Lewis measure would allow the state sales and income tax rates to be adjusted independently of each other. Currently, every dollar raised in income tax revenue must be matched by roughly a dollar-in sales tax revenue.

Cut Not Possible

For instance, at its meeting Friday the Board of Equalization could not cut the 2 1/4% sales tax due to the required 50-50 revenue balance.

Exon predicted that if a tax hike is needed in the near future, it will be the sales tax that will be raised.

Lewis said the sales tax is regressive because it hits hardest those who can least afford to pay it. By untying the balance requirement, he said, the income tax could be adjusted to meet revenue needs without affecting the sales tax.

The third proposal would require that the corporate income tax be set independently. Currently, the corporate income tax is 25% of the individual income tax.

So, when the Board of Equalization last Friday cut the individual income tax from 11% to 10%, it also automatically chopped the corporate income tax from 2.75% to 2.5%.

Arabs Seize Apartments

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Arab terrorists invaded an Israeli town on the Jordanian border before dawn Tuesday, seized an apartment building and took an unknown number of hostages.

Army and police units rushed to the scene and sealed off the entire area.

Shooting and explosions were heard inside the four-story apartment building in Beit Shean, a town of 20,000 on the Jordan River 15 miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

Two children escaped from the building and said their parents had been wounded.

Nixon Suggested Buildup For Clemency For Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon suggested a publicity buildup to pave the way for granting executive clemency to E. Howard Hunt Jr. on the day Hunt went on trial for the Watergate burglary.

"Hunt's is a simple case," Nixon told Charles W. Colson in a conversation of Jan. 8, 1973, played Monday for the Watergate cover-up jury.

Colson talked with Nixon about Hunt, a college friend he had recruited for the White House, despite an admonition by John D. Ehrlichman that he was not to do so.

"We'll build that son-of-a-bitch up like nobody's business," the jury heard Nixon telling Colson, who had warned that Hunt and his Watergate partner, G. Gordon Liddy, could talk about things that "are very incriminating to us."

The jury earlier had heard testimony from John W. Dean III that Colson on Jan. 5 had passed on veiled assurances to Hunt's lawyer that "a year is a long time and clemency is usually considered around Christmas time."

Nixon referred to that Colson promise in another conversation played for the jury — a talk he had with H. R. Haldeman on March 22, 1973 — the day before Hunt was scheduled to be sentenced and after Hunt had received a $75,000 payment toward his demand for $120,000 from the White House. In the same conversation, Haldeman suggested that the Watergate blame be pinned on John N. Mitchell, the re-election campaign director.

"If Colson is talking, uh, of a pardon, uh, Christmas . . . he's out of his mind," Nixon told Haldeman. "He knows we can't do that." Haldeman: "But if Hunt thinks that's what he's been promised . . ."

Nixon: "He'll shut up now."

Haldeman: "He may shut up now."

Nixon: "Yeah, but my point is . . ."

Haldeman: "But, what, what do you do at Christmas time?"

Nixon agrees and tells Haldeman to find out exactly what Colson promised and Haldeman suggests it might be easier to get Hunt a parole, instead of a pardon.

The prosecution began the final week of its case in the trial of Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian by playing four White House tapes, none heard publicly before in their entirety. Fifteen more tapes are scheduled to be played in the coming days.

Long after the Jan. 8 conversation Nixon denied he had authorized clemency to be offered to Hunt or any others in the seven-man burglary team.

On May 22, in a nationwide speech, Nixon said: "At no time did I authorize or know about any offer of executive clemency for the Watergate defendants." He made the same statement repeatedly thereafter.

The former President also told Dean, in a conversation heard by the jury earlier, that to give clemency "would be wrong."

Dean had suggested to Nixon on March 21 that "we draw the wagons around the White House" to keep Watergate blame from the Oval Office. In the March 22 conversation, Nixon asked Haldeman what Dean meant.

"Who do you let down the tube?" Nixon asked his chief of staff. "Do you let (Jeb) Magruder down?"

Haldeman replied: "You don't intentionally . . . we're doing stuff now. We're keeping quiet and . . . just try and cove." The phrase went uncompleted.

Arabs Demonstrate In Old Jerusalem

By The Associated Press
Arabs demonstrated Monday in Old Jerusalem for the first time in four years, and Israeli gunboats shelled a suspected guerrilla base in southern Lebanon.

In the occupied West Bank, the area of Jordan west of the Jordan River, Arab demonstrators defied Israeli police and border troops for a third day. Israeli officials contend the protests reflect a wave of nationalism sparked by the appearance at the United Nations of Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasir Arafat.

Israel captured the West Bank in 1967 and has ruled it since.

Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres told a convention of American B'nai B'rith members he favors a federation between Israel and the Arabs of the West Bank, excluding the PLO.

Peres' remark was seen as a suggested Israeli alternative to the PLO's demand, repeated by Arafat last week to the U.N. General Assembly, for a nonsectarian Palestine state to replace Israel.

Arafat opened a General Assembly debate on Palestine, and a PLO spokesman told a news conference at U.N. headquarters Monday that his delegation hopes to gain support from 120 of the General Assembly's 138 members for Palestinian nationhood.

A PLO delegation visited U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on Monday and charged that Israeli troops have killed 10 persons during protests in Israeli-controlled Arab lands. There was no reaction from Israel.

Peres repeated Israel's refusal to deal with the PLO, but the defense minister said:

"I believe in a federation between us and the Arab people living on the very same land, under the very same roof, with an historic precedent and a political need to coexist in respect and peace."

Israel's only alternatives to the PLO would be a settlement with King Hussein of Jordan or an agreement with the residents of the West Bank, Peres said. But Hussein was ruled out as the negotiator for the West Bank by last month's Arab summit conference, which authorized the PLO to establish a government on occupied land Israel returns.

U.N. peacekeepers between Israeli and Syrian forces in the Golan Heights held a spot check of the Israeli sector after Syria charged that Israel may have moved more arms and equipment to the front during a partial mobilization last weekend than allowed by the disengagement of forces agreement. The observer force holds regular inspections every two weeks.

In Beirut, the Palestinian news agency Wafa claimed that guerrillas blew up a Tel Aviv factory that makes military communications equipment, causing heavy casualties. The Israelis said a three-story electrical firm in downtown Tel Aviv caught fire from a short-circuit but denied that guerrillas bombed it and that it was a military communications factory.

Arab students in a Jerusalem suburb stoned passing cars from the windows of a U.N.-run school and briefly hoisted a Palestinian flag. Steel-helmeted police rushed the school and sent the students home.

Hundreds of Arab youths demonstrated inside the walled Old City shouting "Palestine is ours."

Death Said No Accident

Washington — A union official said Monday there is evidence to suggest that the death last week of a woman technician who had raised critical safety questions about one of the two commercial plutonium factories in the United States may not have been an accident. He called on the Justice Department and the Atomic Energy Commission to investigate the death of Karen G. Silkwood, who died last Wednesday when her car crashed into a cement culvert a few miles south of Crescent, Okla. She was on her way to meet a representative of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union and a newspaper reporter.

Long Caught On Long St.

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — The man arrested last week in one of the state's most intensive manhunts in recent years was back in jail Monday afternoon after a brief taste of freedom.

Donald H. Long, 28, charged with first degree murder and the abduction of four people in Lawrence Wednesday, slipped out of the Shawnee County Jail with two other inmates Sunday night.

Twenty-five officers armed with shotguns, rifles and pistols surrounded a house in east Topeka Monday afternoon, ironically on Long Street, and Long surrendered without offering resistance.

Authorities said Long and two other prisoners escaped before midnight, but their disappearance was not discovered until Benjamin Reed, 25, one of the escapees, walked into the sheriff's office shortly before 10 a. m. and surrendered.

Demo Governors Endorse Compromise In Charter

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — The nation's Democratic governors moved on Monday to head off a split at next month's mini-convention by unanimously endorsing compromise language for a key provision in the proposed party charter.

The proposal is designed to prevent renewed squabbling between the party's regular and reform factions at the Kansas City meeting Dec. 6-8. It would incorporate in the party's permanent charter antidiscrimination provisions already adopted for selection of 1976 national convention delegates, encouraging participation by women, minorities and young people but barring quotas.

Monday's action at a closed luncheon during the Democratic Governors Conference followed warnings that the party's performance at the Kansas City meeting will show the nation whether the Democrats are ready for national leadership.

"This breaks the logjam," said National Chairman Robert S. Strauss, who has been seeking a compromise between demands by minorities for greater assurance they will be protected and complaints by some regulars that existing proposals were too close to the controversial 1972 rules that became virtual quotas.

The compromise is similar to one that had been put together earlier this year, only to break apart at a meeting in Kansas City last August at which some reformers walked out.

The proposal was introduced by Gov.-elect Michael S. Dukakis of Massachusetts and seconded by Gilligan and Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, who is expected to run for the 1976 presidential nomination. Approval was by voice vote without any "nos" heard.

Chrysler Cutback Means Layoffs

By United Press International
Chrysler Corp. will cut 50,000 cars from its production schedule but will not impose a company-wide shutdown in December, Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend said Monday.

Substantial layoffs of Chrysler workers would be necessary for a production cut of that magnitude, Townsend said details had not been worked out. Chrysler already has idled 26,000 workers.

Townsend ended speculation Chrysler would close its entire operation in December, a move that could have idled 110,000 workers, 61,000 in the Detroit area. Townsend also said Chrysler would not close for the time being its aging Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit, as had been contemplated earlier.

Young and officers of the United Auto Workers, Townsend said 50,000 cars would have to be cut from Chrysler's fourth quarter production schedule because the company has a four-month supply of unsold cars.

The auto industry has laid off 100,000 workers so far because of sagging sales and more layoffs are expected not only from Chrysler but from other automakers as well.

The wholesale auto layoffs and drastic cutbacks in production are helping push the U.S. economy closer to the worst recession since World War II and affecting the jobs of thousands of persons in other sectors of the economy.

In other economic developments:

Prices plunged on the New York Stock Exchange in early trading. The Dow Jones industrial index of blue chip stocks dropped 22.69 points to 624.92. It was the biggest one-day drop since Jan. 10.

Federal Trade Commissioner Mayo J. Thompson told a congressional committee price fixing is commonplace in the U.S. economy and costs consumers at least $10 billion in "illegally inflated prices."

The price of gold hit record levels in Europe, reaching $195.03 an ounce in Paris, $190.75 in Zurich and $190.50 in London. The U.S. dollar fell to a new low in Zurich and slumped elsewhere.

Housing starts in October of 1.124 million units were the lowest since January 1970, when 1,065 units were started, the Census Bureau said. An economist for the National Association of Home Builders said unemployment in the building trades, now 12.2%, will rise to about 16% in January.

The White House announced a new sugar import quota of 7 million tons and urged Americans to cut in half their use of sugar for cooking and coffee. President Ford said there is "no risk" the nation will run out of sugar. But, he said, "we may well experience higher prices than we would like until production catches up with demand."

The trend to easier credit to stimulate business continued. A number of major banks lowered their prime interest rate to 10 1/4%.

The House Ways and Means Committee abandoned a major tax reform bill in favor of a smaller bill increasing oil company taxes by at least $2.5 billion and giving some relief to lower income taxpayers. Undecided was whether the committee would end the 22% oil depletion allowance Jan. 1 or phase it out over two years.

Washington (AP) — The single largest beneficiary of Nelson A. Rockefeller's generosity said Monday his acceptance of $625,000 did not hinder his ability to act objectively as a New York state official.

"My judgment was not warped," William J. Ronan, a long-time friend of the former New York governor, told the Senate Rules Committee. The committee is considering Rockefeller's nomination to be vice president.

"We frequently disagreed," said Ronan, adding that if his actions as a state official enhanced the interests of the Rockefeller family, "that would be incidental and only because their interests are so intimately identified with the interests of the community itself."

Rockefeller's gifts totaling $2.5 million to friends and associates over the past 17 years have become a major issue in the confirmation hearings.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said "reasonable men could draw the reasonable inference" that Rockefeller's gifts to Ronan were meant to influence Ronan in violation of state law.

But Byrd said he was making no such allegations and is prepared to give Rockefeller the benefit of the doubt.

Ronan's testimony came on the last day of the Rules Committee hearings. Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said the committee probably will vote on the nomination Wednesday, and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said a vote by the full Senate could follow next week.

However, House Judiciary Committee action on Rockefeller is expected to delay final confirmation until around Christmas. That committee opens hearings on the nomination Thursday.

Ronan has been associated with Rockefeller since 1956. He played a major role in Rockefeller's first campaign for governor, in 1958. When Rockefeller took office, Ronan became his chief of staff.

Ronan left the governor's office in March 1968 to become chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority. Last May he became a trustee of the state Power Authority.

Rockefeller had appointed Ronan to the board of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey in 1967, and last May 3, Ronan became chairman of that agency.

Beginning in 1962, Rockefeller loaned Ronan $510,000 in six installments. Ronan said, and his testimony backed that given by Rockefeller last week, that the loans were made out of friendship and were used to improve Ronan's capital position and for investment purposes that would yield income during his retirement.

From the start, Ronan testified, he always intended to repay the loans and was never given any indication by Rockefeller that the notes would be forgiven, as they all were May 3, 1974.

Byrd told reporters that information gathered by the FBI on whether Rockefeller had indicated he would forgive the interest-free loans "does not square with Ronan's testimony."

"There were indications in the FBI report that such expressions of intent on the part of Mr. Rockefeller had been made to Mr. Ronan prior to his resignation May 1," Byrd said.

But even such a misrepresentation would not be enough to show that the former governor and his associate had violated New York laws against bribery and "tipping" state officials, Byrd added.

In addition to the interest-free loans, which were forgiven, Rockefeller gave Ronan $115,000

William J. Ronan

outright in two installments. Byrd noted that the gift of interest on the six loans was worth at least $152,000 at 4 per cent, meaning Rockefeller's gifts to Ronan really totaled more than $775,000.

Ronan, who is on the Rockefeller payroll as an adviser at a $100,000 annual salary, said he has no apologies for his relationship with the vice president-designate.

Minimum Commissions Case To Be Appealed To High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether stock exchange rules are not necessarily exempt from antitrust laws just because they are regulated by the SEC.

In other cases, the court: —Agreed to consider whether federal courts had the right to intervene in the case of a former New Jersey municipal judge charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice. —Set aside by a five-four vote a lower court ruling that Wisconsin's anti-obscenity law is unconstitutional. The decision sends the case back to the federal circuit court in Chicago for further proceedings. —Agreed to review a federal court decision overriding orders of a state court under which Orange County, Calif., authorities seized copies of the films "Deep Throat" and "The Devil in Miss Jones."

The American Stock Exchange, New York Stock Exchange and the SEC argued that the lower court should be upheld, but joined in asking the Supreme Court to review the decision.

The ruling conflicts with a 1971 decision of the Seventh U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that stock exchange rules are not necessarily exempt from antitrust laws just because they are regulated by the SEC.

Declined to hear arguments that the Junior Chamber of Commerce is obligated to open its membership to women because it receives federal grants and other benefits.

Grandma Finds a Gold Mine—in Plates!

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one grandmother of modest means bought one exceptional plate for $25 in 1965 that now sells for $1,050, and purchased another at $10 in 1969 that now brings $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more. It even includes special offers on eagerly-sought collector plates at modest cost.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Bradford Galleries, 378U Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request before November 30, 1974.

Boom From Bust

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Stripper Ann Marie says she's making a bundle capitalizing on man's obsession with a woman's bust.

"I was in college when I realized that I had a gold mine," says the 21-year-old stripper whose talent measures 67-25-36.

Touring the nation as "Little Annie," the 5-foot-5, 150-pound blonde currently headlines a go-go club's show in this Gulf Coast city, drawing up to $3,500 a week in salary.

"People come wondering what they'll see," says the candid Miss Marie. "I strip simply because if I didn't people would say I'm stuffed."

In her nightly show, Miss Marie proves her doubters wrong. After her act, in which she coyly struts the stage with a mechanical dog perched atop her chest, she holds question-and-answer sessions with amazed customers.

But the Chicago resident, who began her peekaboo career after dropping out of the University of Illinois, says she gets no kicks from stripping.

"I like to think of my act as comedy," she says. "I got it and it's all natural — no silicone — so I use it."

The daughter of Polish immigrants, Miss Marie says, "I come from a big-busted family. I measured 42 inches by the time I was 14."

While her figure more than fills the requirements of her profession, Miss Marie displays a head for business.

"The money is good. I'll be able to retire in a couple of years," she says. "While the others are out spending it on Cadillacs and furs, I'm saving mine to invest in something that will make money for me long-term."

After retirement, Miss Marie says she hopes to purchase a farm.

"Maybe I want a farm subconsciously," she says, "to get away from being stared at."

Victor Prepares Greece For Plebiscite

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Armed with the biggest electoral victory in Greek history, Premier Constantine Caramanlis said Monday that "democracy has returned to its birthplace" and prepared the nation for a plebiscite on the future of the monarchy.

He also had decisions to make on Cyprus, ties with the United States, and possibly renewing Greece's military links with NATO, severed at the height of the Cyprus crisis.

But, the 67-year-old Caramanlis told a news conference he will not take a stand on whether exiled King Constantine should be restored to the throne, and asserted, "Let the people decide for themselves without any pressures."

Caramanlis and his New Democracy party polled 54.5 per cent of the vote Sunday and took 214 of the 300 seats in Parliament in the first free elections in more than a decade.

The avalanche wiped out such well known opponents as Melina Mercouri, star of "Never On Sunday" and a candidate of the Panhellenic Socialist Movement, and Mikis Theodorakis, composer of "Zorba The Greek" and a candidate of the Communist United Left party.

George Mavros' Center Union-New Forces party got 20.41 per cent of the vote for 64 seats and became the major opposition party.

A new party led by former U.S. citizen Andreas Papan-dreou, who once headed the Economics Department at the University of California at Berkeley, got 13.61 per cent of the vote.

Papan-dreou's Panhellenic Socialist Movement, whose anti-American platform was the most virulent seen in Greece in recent years, got 12 seats in parliament, while the Communist United Left got only 9.20 per cent of the vote and 10 seats.

With an overwhelming parliamentary majority, Caramanlis was certain to take whatever decisions he sees fit on such outstanding problems as Cyprus and possibly renewing military ties with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Another key question, foremost in American diplomats' minds here is whether Caramanlis would seek to mend fences with the United States.

Greeks widely believe that Washington tilted toward Turkey during the Cyprus crisis.

Report Speculates About Pot's Effects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laboratory studies suggest that marijuana smoking may interfere with reproduction, disease resistance, and basic biological processes, according to a new government report released Monday.

But the report, "Marijuana and Health," also speculated that marijuana may sometime in the future prove useful in treating tumors and in preventing rejection of transplanted organs.

The National Institute on Drug Abuse, which prepared the report for Congress, cautioned that its research findings were speculative since they involved, for the most part, studies on animals and tissue in test tubes.

Dr. Robert L. DuPont, the institute's director, who admitted trying marijuana "a number of years ago," said the preliminary findings give "cause for concern and caution."

"For now it would seem the possible adverse effects should lead marijuana smokers or potential smokers to question whether it is worth the risk," he said.

DuPont, who is also director of the White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, said that if he had known as a younger man what the latest report disclosed, "I think it might very well have deterred me" from marijuana experimentation.

Marijuana, the 38-year-old, 1963 Harvard Medical School graduate said, "is dangerous and I am prepared to so certify. I am prepared to say now that it's a hazard to health."

In a speech to the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws last weekend, DuPont criticized stiff penalties for marijuana users but stopped short of calling for decriminalization.

The report he released cited these new research findings but cautioned that implications for humans were "purely speculative."

—Animal studies indicated that marijuana's active ingredient, delta-9-THC, has a "potentially harmful effect" on fundamental cell metabolism and may interfere with the body's ability to resist diseases.

—THC delays rejection of skin grafts in rats, suggesting possible value in organ transplant surgery, and inhibits the growth of solid tumors in mice and thus may prove useful in treating human tumors.

—Marijuana smoke, administered to human lung tissue in a test tube changes the basic chemistry of cell life, cell division and growth.

One new study involving 20 young chronic marijuana smokers showed that levels of the male hormone testosterone were lowered temporarily. Six had reduced sperm counts, although levels remained within the normal range, and two were impotent.

The hormone levels returned to original levels after marijuana smoking was stopped. Two other studies produced inconsistent results; one found reduced serum testosterone and the other did not.

Democrats Out Of Step

Japanese leftists and housewives upset with economic conditions at home are not the only ones protesting President Ford's trip to Tokyo this week.

Down at Hilton Head Island, S.C., where the Democratic governors are gathering, criticism of the presidential trip is part of the order of business. Congressional criticism continues apace as well.

Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, chairman of the Democratic governors Conference, said over the weekend that he understands the importance of presidential visits abroad but suggested that Ford should be tending to the economic problems here at home. He said he'd feel better about Ford's absence "if the nation's economic house were in order before he left."

Sen. Howard Cannon, the Nevada Democrat who is chairing the Senate hearings on the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller to become vice president, told reporters Sunday that he didn't think the trip was necessary and that he felt with so many problems at home and no vice president in office it is "a very bad time" to make the trip. Cannon offered a very bad argument because it is Congress, not Ford, which is responsible for there being no vice president in office.

The estimates are that not much of substance will be accomplished in the five days in Tokyo and South Korea and the weekend summit meeting with the Soviet leaders in Siberia. It looks as if Japan's Premier Tanaka is about to fall from power. South Korea's regime is unpopular with most Americans and possibly most Koreans, and the trip to Seoul is really just a polite recognition of an old ally. And in Vladivostok, about all Ford and Brezhnev will be doing is testing one another in advance of next year's summit meeting.

But even if all that is conceded, the Democratic criticism of Ford's trip is ill-considered and unnecessary. The fact of the matter is that the American government owed the Japanese a trip; few will dispute that. And it is important that it come before Sec. Kissinger's upcoming trip to China. Moreover, it is hard to fault any steps taken to continue the new relationship with the Soviet Union. With the latest developments in the Middle East pointing to possible war, the Brezhnev-Ford meeting could turn out to be a piece of good timing.

The Democratic criticism of this probably innocuous but possibly helpful presidential trip is not in the spirit of the bipartisan foreign policy which the nation desires. Nor does it recognize that the people are tired of politicians carping about everything under the sun.

Qualifications Still At Issue

According to the State Personnel Director, William C. Peters, the qualifications for the job of warden of the Nebraska Penal Complex can be easily waived.

Said Peters last week in response to an inquiry by State Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln: "When it's been established that there can be no substitution for requisite qualifications, then no deviation from the standards must be permitted. It's recognized, however, that this exists only in a limited number of classifications." The job of warden apparently is not among that number.

Thus newly-appointed Warden Robert Parratt's 18 years of experience at the complex are being substituted for guideline qualifications which call for a college degree but less experience in corrections. Parratt attended but did not graduate from high school.

Perhaps Parratt's experience in corrections should outweigh suggested educational qualifications; it really depends on how that experience has molded his attitudes and approaches to corrections work and we're not familiar with those circumstances.

But we think that members of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, including Barnett and Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, are entitled to raise questions about the waiver of qualifications in this case. It is a sensitive position Parratt was appointed to and deserving of the utmost consideration.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain what "functional" means? I had a problem with leg and back aches. A specialist thought it was something functional. Blood tests showed nothing abnormal. What can I do to relieve the problem? — D. T.

some light scars on my face due to pimples. Could you recommend some type of medication, to help the scars disappear. — B. R.

Medication won't do any good. In some cases "skin planing" by a dermatologist or plastic surgeon will.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My cousin, 12, complains occasionally that light is piercing his eyes. He then develops a severe headache, usually one-sided. Then he vomits. His mother dismisses this three-part sequence as "sinus trouble." What do you think? — H.P.

It doesn't sound in the least like sinus trouble; it does have all the classic symptoms of migraine, and I would guess that the periodic misery will continue until finally he and she learn something about migraines.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the causes or symptoms of glaucoma? Is it curable? Is it inherited? What is the treatment? If you have a booklet on it, I will send for it. — E. G.

The cause of glaucoma is not usually apparent — and unfortunately the symptoms in most cases are not recognized by the patient until the condition is advanced.

It amounts to an increase in pressure inside the eyeball, and given time this pressure will destroy eyesight, so it is a dangerous condition.

It can be detected, however, quite readily by a simple medical test which measures pressure in the eye. If pressure is excessive, then the use of drops, and in some cases eye surgery, can reduce the pressure and prevent the damage.

I take a dim view of distilled water doing anything at all in the way of helping asthma, but I can't see any reason why you shouldn't try it. It can't harm him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you write whether you think a lazy eye that wanders only when my granddaughter (10 years old) is tired or nervous should be operated on? She has tried glasses and exercises but they do not help. — E.T.S.

This is the kind of question I can't undertake to answer, first because I would want to know a good deal more about her condition before forming an opinion, and second (and more important) I think this should be answered by an ophthalmologist. Eye specialist, that is.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have stretch marks on my stomach, behind my knees and under my arms. It wouldn't be so bad except for the redness. What can I do to make the redness go away? — Ms. T. L.

Nothing. But the redness will fade. There's no way to get rid of the stretch marks, though.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband is a diabetic and his eyesight is becoming worse all the time. Is this type of blindness in the cornea, and would a cornea transplant do any good? Where could he go for information? — Mrs. E. S.

Failing vision in a diabetic is usually due to changes deep in the eye — the retina, and not in the cornea.

It may be that some other eye condition (cataract, glaucoma, even need for new glasses) is causing his trouble. His regular physician or an eye specialist can readily decide what problem is involved and tell him which way to proceed.

The Paper Shufflers Have 'Finest Hour'

WASHINGTON — Neither war, nor pestilence, nor terrorist attack can stanch the processing of government forms.

A few weeks ago, for example, seven terrorists grabbed eight hostages in the Dominican Republic. Among the prisoners was Barbara Hutchinson, who headed the local U.S. information office.

For two long weeks, the insurgents held out, demanding $1-million ransom and the release of 38 political prisoners from Dominican jails. Throughout the ordeal, U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch and other officials negotiated intermittently with the terrorists.

There were forms to fill out, for example, to account for the food and drink, which were delivered daily to the guerrillas and their hostages.

Much of the food came from the U.S. embassy which, unhappily, had no authorization to feed desperados. Who would pay for the vittles, and how was the expense to be justified?

Hurwitch thought the money should be taken from the embassy's "representation allowance," a fund that is supposed to finance parties, receptions and similar soirees "in U.S. interests."

The trouble was that the voucher forms simply weren't worded to accommodate the occasion.

Thereupon, Hurwitch composed a tongue-in-cheek cable, carefully classified it "Confidential," and fired it off to the home office.

"Dept. should be aware," states the classified cable, "that most of the sandwiches that have been delivered (to the terrorists) ... are product of the Ambassador's cuisine. The soft drinks have been on him ..."

"After perusing all pertinent current regulations as well as studying all possible historical precedents which might enlighten, we regrettably confess that we are unable ... to complete the representation voucher. We just don't seem to be able to get the boxes on the form to fit the occasion."

"Such fundamental questions arise as to whether the kidnappers as well as the hostages should be claimed. Can we properly maintain that feeding kidnappers is a social function that promotes U.S. interests?"

"Among the hostages, there is a Spanish priest of the Dominican order; how do we feel about him, representation-wise? It should be noted that although this priest is referred to as 'he,' when the question of obtaining the release of the women was discussed with President Balaguer, the Spanish ambassador quickly pointed out that his client wore skirts. If the priest is considered a legitimate representation claim, under what sex should we list him ..."

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP

Opening Closing The Wrong Time?

By WILLIAM SAFIRE

WASHINGTON — In trying to grasp the strategy of global diplomacy, one of the best questions to ask is, "Why now?" Why was President Ford hurried into the Vladivostok summit with Leonid Brezhnev, about six months ahead of schedule?

Not because the two leaders want to size each other up, not because SALT negotiations require a summit meeting; not because of the danger of war in the Mideast, which may dominate the discussions.

The underlying reason we pressed for this summit at this time is that the opening that permitted our creative diplomacy over the last five years is showing signs of closing.

these tirades are likely to continue. Why? A good guess is that both nations see the need to improve their state-to-state relations while continuing their international Communist Party battle.

That guess makes sense because the central concern in China now is the succession to Mao and Chou. Through the mists, one can discern the emergence of another team of Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside.

Mr. Inside, Teng Hsiao-Ping, was a high party official ousted during the cultural revolution and has now made a comeback to deputy premier; Mr. Outside, Chiao Kuam-Hua, was the U.N. delegate and has just become foreign minister. When Mao and Chou are gone,

"... the central concern in China now is the succession to Mao and Chou. Through the mists, one can discern the emergence of another team of Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside ... During a year-long mourning, any change in policy would be seen as disrespect to Mao's memory. Accordingly, the aging Chou is calling for moderation in state-to-state relations with the Soviets at this time. This will make it easier for the successors to keep the sampan from rocking."

MAO

Secretary Kissinger is duty-bound to deny that reason, just as he must deny that the dramatic split in the communist world between the Soviets and the Chinese was deliberately and skillfully exploited by the United States. As a result of our "triangulation," the Soviet Union changed its methods, if not its goals, in pursuing détente. The Chinese countered by beginning "normalization" with us; and leverage was applied to bring an end to the need for our involvement in Vietnam.

But the Soviets and Chinese could not permit our exploitation of their deep-seated disagreements to go on forever; recently, there have been signs that one area of their relations has been improving — far from a reconciliation, but enough to make our manipulation more difficult.

Soviet policy, which had tripled troop strength on the Chinese border in the last three years, is showing signs of flexibility. Some river islands are being offered up; and border patrols are fewer, to reduce incidents. For their part, the Chinese appear to have called off the threatened "show trial" of a Russian helicopter crew shot down over Chinese territory, and have stopped demanding a pre-negotiations admission that all Czarist-Manchu treaties were imperialistic.

Trade, which had dropped to $50 million a year, is now up to the rate of $300 million; both the Chinese and Soviets had representatives at a recent private meeting at the Rome Food Conference, and non-aggression pacts are being proposed publicly.

These small steps toward compromise are accompanied still by mutual denunciations of ideological revisionism, and these two could lead a collegium in the mourning period.

During that year-long mourning, any change in policy would be seen as disrespect to Mao's memory; accordingly, the aging Chou is calling for moderation in state-to-state relations with the Soviets at this time, which will make it easier for the successors to keep the sampan from rocking.

But the shift away from national confrontation means that our exploitable gap will be narrowed; it will be that much harder for us to play the Soviets against the Chinese in the future.

In this light, it is easier to understand the otherwise inexplicable rush to a summit in Vladivostok. Chinese fears of U.S.-U.S.S.R. secret deals will be raised as Ford and Brezhnev announce "conceptual breakthroughs" on arms limitation. This summit then becomes the springboard for the important meeting — perhaps the final meeting — between Secretary Kissinger and Premier Chou in Peking on November 25.

For the Chinese, a Kissinger visit now is useful to prepare for the succession, and as a final Chou effort to put our feet to the fire about our recognition of Taiwan.

For the Soviets, a summit now is useful in getting the new U.S. President to commit more aid in helping Russians cope with the failures of their own technocracy.

For the U.S., Ford's trip now is an effort to stick a wedge between door and doorjamb. The Sino-Soviet split was our once-in-a-generation opportunity and we made the most of it; we are hurrying now to leverage as much as we can before the opening really begins to close.

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — When in doubt, travel. That has been the prescription President Ford's recent predecessors have fallen back on when troubles at home have closed in. After all, you get on television via satellite every night in an exotic setting with theoretically cheering crowds hailing your presence.

But Ford's travels during this week are likely to be bedeviled by troubles abroad that cannot be resolved by a television spectacular. Whether or not this is the wrong trip at the wrong time is a question that hangs over the President's quick sortie to the Far East.

In Japan Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka is in a political crunch so acute that he can hardly survive the year. The of nuclear weapons deployed in countries where terrorists, by seizing one or more of these weapons, can blackmail the world. This was La Rocque's testimony on South Korea:

"I think we are in great danger and it is growing all the time as long as Park stays in power and continues to increase his power in South Korea. It is just a matter of time before we have a major disagreement with the South Koreans. They have a larger military force than the North Koreans ... They don't really need us there."

"If we can pull out gracefully with our nuclear weapons and our men we will get out with a whole skin. But if we wait until they throw us out, they may also decide

"In Japan Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka is in a political crunch so acute that he can hardly survive the year. The underlying anti-Americanism has been sharpened by the revelation that American naval vessels in Japanese ports retain their nuclear weapons. This was followed by a report of a secret agreement between the governments of Japan and the United States permitting transit of ships or planes carrying nuclear arms."

underlying anti-Americanism has been sharpened by the revelation that American naval vessels in Japanese ports retain their nuclear weapons.

This was followed by a report of a secret agreement between the governments of Japan and the United States permitting transit of ships or planes carrying nuclear arms.

But there is something to be said for the first visit of an incumbent President to Japan, if only to rebut the Japanese feeling of neglect and indifference on the part of the other great Pacific power.

Responding to an invitation that had been accepted by former President Nixon, President Ford would have caused serious offense if he had called the visit off.

It is the stop in South Korea after Japan that raises the gravest doubts about the disarray of America's nuclear policy. Besides 40,000 American troops, the United States has nuclear weapons in a dictatorship ruled by President Chung Hee Park in spite of frequent outbursts of violence.

The pressure on Ford to put Seoul on his itinerary came from forces, notably the military, believing that once on the scene he will endorse Park and the need to keep American troops in place.

Admiral Gene R. La Rocque, USN Ret., in testimony before a Senate subcommittee revealed, more by inadvertence than intention, that American ships carrying nuclear weapons move in and out of Japanese ports.

But the principal thrust of his testimony, as director of the Center for Defense Information, was on the danger to keep those nuclear weapons and use them as bargaining chips for whatever they want to obtain from the United States. It is a very hazardous situation."

The same threat exists in both Turkey and Greece. The conflict on Cyprus and the Kissinger policy, or lack of it, have stirred deep enmities in both these NATO partners.

The outlook in Greece with the upcoming election is uncertain. Turkey refused to receive Kissinger on his recent swing and demonstrators marched through the streets of Ankara denouncing him as a murderer.

All this points up the urgent need to bring order out of a random nuclear policy that has seen the military profligate in deploying the ultimate weapon with alleged friends around the world.

On Turkish soil, Greek soil, South Korean soil Americans retain control of these caches which are stored in steel and concrete igloos. But the size of the uniformed American guard is small.

Hopefully on his travels, President Ford may be impressed by the need to tackle this better-shelter policy so charged with peril for all concerned. As he moves from banquet to banquet and conference to conference ending in Vladivostok with Leonid Brezhnev, there will be no time for thought.

But on his return, if ever he has an opportunity to reflect in the oval office, he may come up with some tough decisions.

County Board Asks Delay To Consider Waste Study

Lancaster County commissioners said Monday they want two weeks to discuss whether or not they should participate in a city study on converting solid waste into electricity.

County Board Chairman Bob Colin said it would take the county at least two weeks to make that decision.

Colin's comments came following a joint meeting with the City Council and mayor, called to define the type of study needed, determine who should head the study and the costs involved.

The council has set aside $70,000 in the public works and public utilities budgets and $50,000 in the Lincoln Electric System's budget for a study.

Problems Listed
Public Works Director Bob Obering said the lawmakers also will have to determine what kind of material should be collected, how it would be collected, how the waste would be transported and what kind of processing to use to convert the garbage to fuel.

Last month the council extended by one year the operation of the K St. power plant, which supplies steam to a number of downtown businesses, so that a study could be conducted.

One solution mentioned is construction of a central heating plant, which could be placed under the control of the public works or public utilities department, instead of under LES control.

No timetable has yet been set for completion of the study.

Glass Question
In a related matter, Councilwomen Helen Boosalis and Sue Bailey suggested that the study look into using 50 tons of glass collected by the Citizens for Environmental Improvement (CEI).

A story in last week's Lincoln Star reported that CEI would like the city or private contractors to recycle the glass, collected over a two-year period.

Bailey asked if the city is trying to find a local use for the glass, such as grinding it for a asphalt mixture, used to pave streets.

Obering said, "I don't believe we can handle it," saying that the city does not have a machine to crush the glass.

CEI began collecting the glass so that it could be shipped to Illinois for recycling. However, the cost of shipping the glass became prohibitive and CEI quit accepting glass at its recycling centers last April.

Baker's Vote Nixes Assistant

City Councilman Dick Baker cast the magic vote Monday which killed local lawmakers' plans to hire an administrative assistant.

Baker joined Councilmen Steve Cook, Max Denney and Bob Sikyta in abandoning the project for this year.

Council members Sue Bailey, Helen Boosalis and John Robinson voted to hire a council helper.

The vote means the city will abandon its application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $10,000 planning grant which would have paid a portion of the assistant's salary for one year. The council had budgeted $6,000 to bring the now defunct assistant's wage to $16,000.

The vote, which council members said was the last vote they would take on the matter, brings to an end more than a year of deliberation on the matter. Several other votes have been taken throughout the year, including ones on seeking the planning grant or hiring a consultant to do individual research jobs.

Sikyta originally was the strongest proponent of the assistant proposal, but said last week he was tired of the hassle surrounding the issue.

Council members were never able to reach agreement on what the assistant would be hired to do and how the person would be hired.

Council Okays Contract To Handle County Buying

The City Council Monday approved a contract with the county which allows the city purchasing office to handle all county purchases and bids.

The county will pay approximately $12,000 annually for the services.

The County Board has approved the contract.

The recommendation to consolidate purchasing services was made by the City-County Implementation Commission (CCIC), which is monitoring merger efforts. The city and county already have agreed to a personnel contract whereby the county has agreed to delegate personnel duties to the city.

Ford's Courier Cost Increased

Dearborn, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Monday it is raising the list price on its imported 1974 Courier pickup truck $177 to $3,146, effective immediately.

The company attributed the increase, the third this year, to higher costs.

The price of the truck has now gone up $507 since it was introduced last January at $2,639. The 1975 models go on sales in January.

Four Students Made Members OF SUN Council

Four Nebraskans enrolled in State University of Nebraska (SUN) courses have been appointed to the SUN Advisory Council, council chairman Thomas Keating announced Tuesday.

Keating, superintendent of the Hastings Public Schools, said the four are Mrs. Sharon Lickingteller, Omaha; Mrs. Rowena Young, Lincoln; Hervey Jensen, Ravenna; and Mrs. Mildred Swanson, Dalton.

The appointments bring to 23 the number of representatives of education, business, labor, government and the general public on the council.

The students represent areas served by four SUN learning centers in Scottsbluff, Kearney, Lincoln and Omaha, Keating said.

They attend their first council meeting Thursday in the Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Center in Lincoln.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy

Sen. Kennedy In Egypt Hoping To Visit Sadat

CAIRO (AP) — U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, one of Israel's strongest congressional supporters, arrived in Egypt Monday on a quick Middle East tour.

Kennedy told newsmen he was in Egypt to talk with President Anwar Sadat, who Kennedy said was "playing a useful and important role" in bringing economic development to Egypt and in searching for a Middle East peace.

But U.S. Embassy officials said after Kennedy's arrival that it was not clear if the Massachusetts Democrat would meet with Sadat later in the day. Sadat is said to be suffering from a severe cold.

In Israel Sunday, Kennedy reaffirmed U.S. support for Israel and said he "deplored both the tone and the words" of Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat's speech last week to the United Nations General Assembly.

Cairo's two major daily newspapers ignored the story. But the third, Al-Gomhouriya, accompanied it with angry criticism.

"The peace the new Kennedy wants is the peace that Israel wants, a peace under the sound of arms supplied by the senator's country," the paper said in a brief front-page commentary.

Conmen Net $250 In 'Pigeon Drop'

A variation of the "pigeon drop" confidence game worked for two men to the tune of $250 Monday afternoon, police Lt. Albert Maxey said.

Maxey said a young woman was approached at 13th and O by a black male in his 50s described as having a full beard, Afro and slight build, who showed her some money.

A second black male, this one in his 20s, then approached the two and told the other man he "shouldn't be showing all that kind of money around; he might get ripped off," Maxey said.

Maxey said the two men then convinced the girl to withdraw $250 from her savings account and give it to one of the men at her place of work as security while she took care of the money for the older black male.

Of course, Maxey said, she didn't get money in return when she gave the two men her $250.

Maxey said there had been a similar pigeon drop attempt on Nov. 11, "but this one didn't come off."

He said three suspects were involved in the earlier incident, one of them generally matching the description of the younger man involved Monday.

MEAT LABEL ... shows ingredients in the order of their predominance.

Grocery shopping is hardly a pleasure these days with food prices ever on the rise.

More and more shoppers are making it a habit to compare the prices and weights of various brands, and today, thanks to nutritional labeling consumers can be sure that they are getting the most nutrients for their dollar.

According to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), many food processors are currently putting nutrition information on their food labels. In fact, by 1975, all fortified foods and all foods for which a nutrition claim is made, will require nutrition information displays on the labels.

Consumers can find nutrient content information to the right of the principal display panel on the package or can: And in keeping with the FDA regulations, all nutritional labels follow a basic format, thus making all labels standard and easier for the consumer to read and understand.

Nutrition information on the labels is based on serving size, and the number of servings per container is also listed among the data.

In addition, the number of calories per serving is included on the label as well as the three major nutrients (protein, carbohydrates and fats), which are listed in grams.

The FDA reports that grams were selected to measure the nutrients because grams are smaller measurement units than ounces and many of the food components are present in only small amounts.

The agency explains that one pound equals 454 grams (g), one ounce is equivalent to 28 grams, one gram contains 1,000 milligrams (mg) and there are 1,000 micrograms (mcg) in one milligram.

Next on the label is a list of vitamins and minerals, and the percentage of each as it relates to the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA).

The U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances are the amounts of protein, vitamins and minerals that an adult should eat each day. To ensure the proper intake of vitamins and minerals, the FDA suggests that daily percentages for each should add up to about 100.

Among the nutrients, vitamins and minerals for which RDA percentages are given, protein, Vitamins A and C, Thiamine, Riboflavin, Niacin, Calcium and Iron must be listed. However additional vitamins and minerals may be included.

Likewise, the listing of cholesterol, fatty acid and sodium content is optional.

Consumers should pay particular attention to the list of ingredients, as they are listed in descending order by predominance of weight.

Unique Solution Is Offered

DEAR ABBY: A reader offered $100 to the charity of your choice, and you picked the Cancer Crusade. Abby, I think you made a poor choice. Curing cancer and other diseases of old age will create far worse problems for our society than it will solve.

Do you realize that if we find cures for cancer, strokes, heart diseases and kidney diseases, we will double the number of years between age 65 and death (at 96) for the average person? Coupled with reduced birth rates, this means we will more than double the proportion of old people in our society, and we will astronomically increase the numbers of the very old. And while we go on looking for medical miracles to extend life, we condemn the increasing numbers of old people to a life of poverty and neglect.

I think it is wrong for society to try to offer people a longer life when we cannot assure them of a better life. That is why I favor a moratorium on life-extending medical research until the year 2000.

In times past, people looked to the old for wisdom and guidance. I think we need their guidance now. I would like to see the opinions of old people, and even of terminal cancer patients. I would ask them, "What is more important to you, a longer life of a better life?" And, more generally, "What should society do to make longer life better?"

JOHN LOZIER
ASS'T PROFESSOR,
ANTHROPOLOGY
W. VA. UNIVERSITY,
MORGANTOWN

DEAR PROF: Your proposed "moratorium on life-extending medical research" as an aid to population control is, to say the least, unique.

Personally, I would rather deal with the "problems" that result from reduced suffering and longer life, than return to the "good old days" when only the strong and lucky survived. And if this conflicts with the message of anthropology, I would be surprised.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you told someone how to answer "Father's Name" on an application when that person was illegitimate and didn't want to answer the question.

My mother died when I was a baby and I was raised by an old maid aunt who never told me who my father was.

I am about to fill out an application for citizenship and I don't want to lie. How can I answer it truthfully without feeling embarrassed? Thank you.

LONE STAR STATE
DEAR LONE: Be honest. State simply "Unknown." And don't feel embarrassed. It is no reflection on you.

Free Examination To Be Given

Free cervical cancer and breast examinations for women aged 45 and older will be offered at Planned Parenthood, 3830

Adams, beginning the last week of November.

The program, funded through a government grant, may develop into a series of permanent cancer screening clinics for all ages, said Susan Lance, student volunteer, who has been on a circuit of speaking engagements to inform women of the clinic.

Although aimed primarily at the low-income "who do not see doctors regularly because they can't afford to," the clinics are available to all interested women, said Miss Lance, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln senior in social work and political science.

Volunteer physicians will conduct the clinics. Bus transportation will be provided.

During her speaking engagements at nursing homes, low-income apartment complexes and Senior Dining locations, Miss Lance explained the medical procedures involved and the importance of continuing the cancer screening examinations after the child-bearing years.

The first series of clinics is expected to continue through January, Miss Lance said.

Interested persons may contact Planned Parenthood to schedule an appointment.

Fall Seeded Crop Aided By Last Week's Moisture

Although additional moisture is needed, precipitation during the past week generally improved Nebraska's fall seeded crops and pastures.

In its weekly crop-weather report, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics said topsoil moisture supplies were short in 57% of the counties reporting as of last Friday. Subsoil moisture remained short across 99% of the state.

Corn harvesting was over 90% completed, well ahead of the usual rate, the ag experts noted. All districts were at least 85% complete and most were over 90% finished, the report stated.

Over 95% of the sorghum crop had been harvested with moisture content continuing to average 19%.

Recent rains aided the condition of the state's winter wheat crop, the report revealed. Only 12% of the counties in the state reported the crop in poor shape, the report said.

The Panhandle and the east district reported mostly good conditions for the wheat, while the other districts listed mostly fair conditions with good to excellent wheat in the extreme southeast corner, according to the bureau.

Range and pasture feed supplies were reported short in 92% of the counties.

Moisture received during the past week included:

7 Counties Approved For Loans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers in seven more Nebraska counties have become eligible for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eligibility for farmers in Buffalo, Cedar, Kearney, Keya Paha, Madison, Sherman and Thayer was announced Monday.

Farmers who sustained losses due to the summer drought and early autumn freeze will be able to apply for the emergency loans at their local FHA offices.

The drought and freeze caused widespread damage to crops, and injured feed supplies as well, forcing many farmers and ranchers to reduce their herds of livestock.

Applications for 5% interest, emergency loans covering fiscal losses must be made by Jan. 16, 1975, while applications for production losses must be made by Aug. 18, 1975.

Norfolk Considered As All-American City

San Diego (AP) — Twenty-one cities are under consideration here for the National Municipal League's award as All-American City. Norfolk, Nebr., is among cities on the list. Judging got under way as the league Monday began a three-day symposium focusing on the importance of competence and credibility in carrying out the affairs of government.

Nebraskans To Head Pork Workshops

Kansas City, Mo. — Two Nebraskans have been appointed to serve as committee chairmen for workshops at the 1975 American Pork Congress to be held here March 19-21. Bill Ahlschwede, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension swine specialist, will head the workshop of market hog weight. Nebraska Pork Producers Association president Bob Craft of Foster will steer the workshop on sow management.

Stuck Cited For Heroism

Hastings (UPI) — The Nebraska Funeral Directors Association said a Soil Conservation service employee from Alma would receive its "hero award" for saving the lives of nine persons. The association cited Dennis Struck for pulling nine persons from Harlan County Lake May 6 after their cruiser had capsized in the water. Of the nine rescued, six were children ranging in age from two to nine years.

Church To Mark Centennial

Blair — (AP) — The Blair Congregational Church will note its 100th anniversary next Sunday and use the same sanctuary constructed in 1874. Additions have been built and the church has been raised from the foundation for a basement. The Nebraska Historical Society has designated the Blair church as a historical landmark.

Cather Exhibit Opens At Fremont

Fremont — A special pictorial exhibit on the life and works of Willa Cather, noted Nebraska author, is on display at Keene Memorial Library in Fremont. The pictorial review by photographer Lucia Woods will be on exhibit until Dec. 13.

Rev. Bruenger Installation Set

Snyder — Installation services of the Rev. Richard Bruenger as pastor of St. Peter and Trinity Lutheran churches will be held as a joint ceremony at St. Peter's Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Alvin Bruenger of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Fremont will be the minister for the installation of his brother.

Youngsters Learn About Depression

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Elmwood — What was the Great Depression really like? Are we going to have another one?

Seventh-graders in Mrs. Mary Skalak's social studies-language arts class at Elmwood Public School have been "roving reporters" the last few weeks, interviewing dozens of local people who lived through the Thirties to find answers to those questions.

In the process, they have developed some very astute conclusions. Philip Penke, for instance, learned that most people "weren't really depressed" during the Depression. "They had fun," he said. "People would help each other out."

Neither Curt Backemeyer nor Cindy Nekolite seriously expects we'll have another depression soon. "People are more prepared," said Curt. But, he added cautiously, "I wouldn't be surprised if we did have one."

Mike Wendt, whose dad is an engineer in an Omaha ice cream plant, said "I don't think Dad'd work any more if there were a depression because people wouldn't be able to afford ice cream."

"It'd probably take longer for everybody to adjust to it because of all we have," Mike said. "But I think everybody'll get through it OK if they just get used to it."

Said JoAnn Ackley: "I don't think it'll hurt very bad. The first thing I'd do is run to the bank and get my money."

Material gleaned from the taped interviews will be written up and published in a class newspaper, Mrs. Skalak said. She hopes the experience will help the kids appreciate the reportorial skills needed by historians — such as accuracy, analysis of information, resolving discrepancies and avoiding libel and bias.

And being involved as roving reporters has proven a turn-on to history for the kids, she said. "That's half the battle. They feel it's so much fun when they know the people — it's better than reading a history book."

People in town have been very helpful, said Mrs. Skalak. One problem for the kids was asking the right questions to get people talking — "but once they get started, they're off."

Nonagenarian Bill Atchison, for instance, was asked whether the Depression affected his farming much.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "everybody had a hard time to go then . . . you had a crop failure two times in two years . . . We lived on was the sale of cream and butter and eggs. We had some corn left over from the year before which we fed to the cows."

"You learned the lesson — I think it's a great lesson to everybody — that you cut out the things that are strictly luxuries when money is scarce," Atchison told his young interviewers. " . . . Let's be serious and think how grateful we should be for what we have . . . let's look on the bright side."

Sherman Hardaway was glad to share his Depression experiences as a storekeeper with the kids. "You take children that age, they don't realize what those things can be," Hardaway explains. "Some of their parents don't even know . . . you can't learn by hearing about it like you can experiencing it."

The project is the second of its kind for Mrs. Skalak's classes. The first was an ambitious investigation of the "old times" of Elmwood — what it was like in pioneer days, how people lived, ate, worked, farmed, got around. Funded by a Title 3 grant, it resulted in a sound-slide presentation done by the kids in their own free time, entitled "Folklore and History of Steve Creek Precinct."

Army Won't Give Body To Mother

Omaha (AP) — The mother of an Omaha serviceman says the Army has told her it will not release the body of her son, unless it is to the son's wife.

Spec. 4 Alonzo Collins Jr., 21, assigned to a medical battalion at Ft. Carson, Colo., was one of two men killed Saturday in a one-car crash about eight miles north of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Hattie Collins, 46, said military officials told her that the body could be released only to Collins' wife. However, Mrs. Collins says she does not know where her daughter-in-law is.

"I can't get my son buried until I find his wife," Mrs. Collins said.

Alice Whitney Collins, 18, the dead man's wife, has not been seen by members of the family since Nov. 8, when she took her brother's car without permission from her father's Lincoln residence. Authorities are now looking for the woman as a missing person, and on a warrant charging her with auto theft.

Mrs. Collins said she did not know her daughter-in-law was missing until the woman's father called Sunday.

The missing woman's father, said his daughter borrowed her brother's car about 10 days ago, saying she was going to Omaha to help a friend move. She has not been seen or heard from since.

A military spokesman at Ft. Carson said that when a serviceman dies, policy dictates that "every feasible attempt" be made to locate the primary next of kin. There is no set time limit.

However, the spokesman added that if the primary relative is not found within a reasonable amount of time, a body can be released to a "secondary" relative.

2 Nebraskans Killed In Separate Crashes

An Omaha man and a Wahoo teenager lost their lives in separate highway accidents in Nebraska, bringing the state's 1974 road death toll Monday to 341, compared to 389 on the same date a year ago.

Killed early Monday morning in an Omaha accident was Arvie George Jr., 24, of Omaha.

Omaha police officers say they observed his vehicle being driven without lights and pursued it in an attempt to issue a traffic citation.

Officers say the vehicle sped away and in the chase jumped a curb and smashed into a tree. The victim was pinned in the wreckage.

Ronald G. Piper, 18, of Wahoo was killed Sunday night in a head-on car-truck crash 1½ miles north of Valparaiso on Highway 79.

The truck driver was identified by the patrol as Weldon W. Johnson, 57, of Wahoo.

Piper, who the patrol said was driving the car involved, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Piper of Wahoo.

Four other youths, passengers in the Piper car, suffered injuries, according to the patrol.

Don Rouse, 19, and Mark Kumpla, 17, were both listed as in "serious" condition late Monday at Lincoln General Hospital. Marsha Lackey, 19, was reported in "fair" condition at St. Elizabeth Health Center. Tom Syverson, 20, was treated and released, it was reported.

Beatrice Rites Are Scheduled For Mrs. Coffin

Beatrice — Funeral services will be 10:30 a.m. Friday for Mrs. Leigh F. (Jane) Coffin of Beatrice, 63, who died Sunday in Omaha. Her husband is the Beatrice postmaster.

Mrs. Coffin was involved in many commodity activities. She was the former chairman and vice chairman of the Gage County Red Cross Board, and had received a Red Cross certificate of service. She also was chairman of the Gray Lady volunteers and the Bargain Box and co-chairman of the Canteen.

In 1973, the women's division of the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce cited her as one of five "Women of the Year." She was the treasurer of the Gage County Historical Society, a member of Christ Church Episcopal, the Library and Community Chest Boards and a charter member of the Children's Guild.

Born in Butler, Pa., Mrs. Coffin had lived in Beatrice since 1947. Prior to that, she graduated from Smith College, and had served in Africa and Europe for the American Red Cross during World War II.

Holscher returned the fees to the county. He did not seek reelection and his term expires in January.

The recommendation of censure or reprimand stops short of disbarment which would remove Holscher from the practice of law.

The court will have to accept or reject Crites' recommendations.

Four Walls Are His Paradise

By ROBERT PETERSON
Our hearts often bleed for older people confined to "four walls." But some of these people make the best of their situations and find no particular evil in being cooped up in a room. Some, in fact, find it enormously satisfying.

One of the most inspiring letters in my files is one received sometime ago from Charles Nazar of Gloucester, N.J. "I've lived in four walls for six years," he wrote me. "I'm an old man in a wheelchair and alone except when an occasional friend looks in on me. But I've learned to love my four walls and don't feel a bit sorry for myself."

"My four walls can be a haven or a hell — whichever I choose them to be. And I choose to make them my haven — a warm, comfortable, satisfying little paradise for the sunset of my life."

"It's true there's a world outside that I cannot reach physically. But it's all within my reach. I'm really not confined when I consider that anything of importance happening in the world is quickly reported to me by radio and TV."

"My four walls are like a school, too. Here I can read and improve my knowledge of a million things. I have so many wonderful books and magazines and my daily paper brings me a wealth of current information.

"I cannot go to church, but my four walls are my church. I can read my Bible and feel very spiritual here. I believe in God and therefore never feel completely alone. I always feel he's near. When I'm lonely I actually talk to Him and seem to hear Him answer back."

"Then there are memories. I can think back to cities I've visited, fields I've run across, streets I've walked, people I've known. My brain isn't crippled — it still provides me with wonderful recollections and ideas."

"My four walls are also my mansion. Here within easy reach are dozens of objects from my past — pictures, chairs, tables, ornaments. When I look at them or touch them I'm reminded they were touched by those I love who have since passed on. Now they seem graced with the breath of those no longer here."

"So don't be sorry because I'm confined to four walls. I feel I'm fortunate to have these four walls for they bring me all the contentment and fulfillment I could possibly want in my retirement years."

The foregoing strikes me as a classic in positive thinking, and those who know elders confined to four walls should clip and send it to them.

Not everyone has the spiritual and emotional resources to find satisfaction in living alone, invalidism, and cramped quarters.

But the fact that Mr. Nazar manages to find life rewarding despite infirmities and limitations should be heartening to elders who must face limitations in their later years.

Forecast For Tuesday

The wife of the Shah of Iran is a Libra and her hobby is collecting information about her zodiacal sign. She has scrapbooks filled with the Libran symbol and can rattle off the characteristics of that zodiacal sector in a most charming and professional manner. Princess Grace of Monaco is a Scorpio and has the symbol of her sign on scarves and hand bags. The princess is knowledgeable about astrology. Zaki Yamini, Saudi Arabia's minister of petroleum, is a strong advocate of astrology — and he is one of the world's most powerful men, since he has much to say about oil and who gets it and at what price. Yes, astrology is at home among the high and the mighty!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Romance, illusion are very much a part of your personal picture. You are promised plenty — but you may find that the best of intentions need money support. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently. Enjoy sweet whispers but don't give up something for nothing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Power play could be in effect. Emphasis is on responsibility, organization and promotion. In personal area, involvements are apt to be "for real." Know it and don't play games with emotions. Stakes are high.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect coincides now with correspondence, publications, higher learning. You reach more people. Your sphere of influence widens. Aries, Libra could play significant roles. Finish key assignment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Investments, taxes, savings and loans — these are emphasized. You find that one who means much to you means more than you ever supposed. Plainly, you are intricately involved. Know it and deal with it and get finances in order, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What appears to be a restriction is actually for your own protection. Legal elements are involved so are possible partnerships, co-operative projects. If single, you might be discussing marriage. Another Leo and an Aquarian could be in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on those who work for you or perform special services. You find that you are sought after in social sense — and you meet more people and do more laughing. That's good but remember those diet resolutions!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent is on change, travel, variety, special dealings with one is vigorous and has "young ideas." You do some tearing down for purpose of rebuilding. You learn also to live within your means. Put another way, you utilize material at hand. That's good!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Practical issues dominate. You receive inquiries.

Questions are asked and answered. Gemini, Virgo individuals are likely to be in picture. Key now is to be analytical. Reject the superficial. Find reasons — discover the "why" of actions, reactions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What relatives say should not have too great an influence on what you do. Make intelligent concessions but refuse to abandon principles. Taurus, Libra and Aries could figure prominently. Idea can be developed into valid concept.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cycle is high, take initiative. Start something! Accept responsibility. Invest in your own talent, ideas, abilities. Refuse to be pushed aside. Trust intuition, judgment. Older person becomes ally and pulls strings in your favor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Now you get rid of fears, doubts. You also "lose" burden that was not your own in first place. Special activity is indicated in conjunction with group, club, institute. Your advice is sought and you have right to be pleased.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you made domestic adjustment, possibly changed residence this year. February and November are your most important months of 1975. You are independent, creative, attractive to opposite sex — and impulsive and extravagant. People are drawn to you and many persons "spoil" you. You are susceptible to flattery and you are a dynamic person with an individual lifestyle.

How to have fewer wrinkles and use 70% less energy* in the bargain.

Get a new gas clothes dryer.

A new gas dryer not only dries your clothes, it smoothes wrinkles, pampers knits, babies' lingerie, and offers you more convenience than ever before. But even more important, when you dry your clothes with gas you're actually conserving energy. This is because gas is a natural fuel and there is no need to use other energy sources to produce it. Electricity, on the other hand, consumes other fuels before it can be produced.

Therefore, it requires more energy to do the same jobs that gas does for less.

While electricity is best for lighting and small appliances, gas is a natural for cooking, for heating your home, for drying your clothes, and for heating your water. So use each for the things it does best. See the versatile, economical, efficient gas appliances at your gas appliance dealer or heating contractor. Or at your gas company today.

NU Needs Low Scoring Game

Coach Tom Osborne told Extra Point Club members Monday that for Nebraska to defeat Oklahoma Saturday in Memorial Stadium it can't be a high scoring game.

"I've been told we will have to score 35 points to win, but I'd like to be told how we can score that many," Osborne said. "Their defense is playing just about as well as it did a year ago and last year's was the finest we had played against."

In that one, the Huskers were shutout on the scoreboard, gained just 74 yards rushing and 100 yards on passes. The Sooners won 27-0.

"Oklahoma can put numbers on the board in a great hurry so the game will boil down to who can make the fewest turnovers, which has the most confidence and emotion," Osborne said. "Both teams have been involved in enough big games that neither will swallow the olive (choke)."

While defense has become an OU strength, Osborne called the Sooners' offense "undoubtedly better than a year ago" since only one offensive tackle was lost at the end of last season.

He cited Elvis Peacock, a freshman with great ability and 9.5 speed in the 100 and said he's probably the closest thing they have to speedy Joe Washington.

"Steve Davis, their quarterback, has an added year of experience and is a very, very complete and fine quarterback," Osborne said.

"Oklahoma has had three or four great offensive teams in the last five or six years and this probably is the best one of the group," the NU coach added.

"We can win, but to say we're going to win is kinda stupid," he cautioned. "I just hope it's a real fine game and I think it will be. If we play as well as we can and the ball bounces our way a few times it could end up the right way for us."

Carbon Copy of Johnny Rodgers

Steve McKelvey, assistant freshman coach who scouted Oklahoma in its 45-14 victory over Kansas, had nothing but praise for the Sooners in his report to the Extra Point Club.

"I can't tell you much you haven't already heard about them," he began. "All I can do is verify it's all true. They're just a great football team."

He noted that OU played an "uninspired" football game against Kansas. "They just did what they had to do. They started out a little rough, Kansas broke a long one on them on a broken play, KU got momentum and kept in the game for a half, but it was just a matter of time."

He said, "They're all good, there's no weakness offensively or defensively. You hear a lot about the Wishbone, but the most impressive thing is the way the defense controls the game."

He said the defense is every bit as good as it ever has been. "They just intimidated Kansas. Their middle people impressed me."

These are the Selmons, LeRoy and Dewey, and Tony Bryant.

"They control everything between the ends and if anything gets behind them they have two very fine linebackers," McKelvey said. He mentioned Rob Shoate and Randy Hughes and called both "Very fine pro prospects."

Offensively, McKelvey was impressed by Davis. "He seems to control what goes on out there," he said. "Kansas held Joe Washington pretty well, but the key was Davis. He gets the job done. He gained 129 yards and ran 29 times. He's very durable. He just amazes you the things he does and the way he runs the team."

Washington, a bona fide Heisman Trophy candidate, was described as "a lot like the kid who wore No. 20 here a few years ago." That of course, is Johnny Rodgers. "He's a carbon copy of Johnny. He runs more than Johnny, who was more of a receiver."

Oklahoma has fine receivers in Tinker Owens and Billy Brooks, both tall and both equal in ability. They'll give the NU secondary problems because of their size, McKelvey said.

Thunderbolt Tradition: Class A—All The Way

Editor's Note: In light of Lincoln Pius X winning its second straight state Class B football championship, the Sunday Journal and Star asked Pius X principal John Strope for his views on the accomplishment. Strope, a 1963 Pius X graduate, was sports editor for the school's yearbook. Here's his account of this year's championship season.

By JOHN STROPE

Pius X High School may be Class B in boys athletics but, as the theme of the 1962 Pius yearbook suggested, the goal in athletics, as in everything, is "Class A — all the way!"

Since my return to Pius in the summer of '73, I have had several memorable experiences and have gained new insights into athletics, pride and winning. I would like to share some of these with you.

Winning is important to people at Pius. For example, every Tuesday morning during the football and basketball seasons one of the nuns comes in to the office to see the prep ratings.

Seeing the full houses at football and basketball games both home and away serves as a testament to our school spirit. Parents who supported our programs when I was a student are still active.

Winning is important to a school. A winning tradition unifies a school. It provides a rallying point — a common cause. It becomes contagious; it carries over to all sports, as it has in the last year for Pius athletics.

Winning carries over to the total school program and environment. It encourages academic excellence. It creates and nurtures pride — pride in one's school and pride in oneself. It makes my job easier!

There are lessons to learn from winning. First of all, you have to be able to handle losing; you have to be able to learn from a loss. Coach Vince Aldrich feels that losing the first game of this season was, in many ways, the turning point of the year. Last year's laurels were not going to do the job; the coaches and players had to get to work.

John Strope
"Winning Teaches Lessons"

Winning isn't easy. Vince says: "It's easy to use skilled, mature athletes, but the key is developing the skills of average players. Keeping the first 22 players happy is relatively easy, but showing the last 22 that they make an important contribution is tough."

Winning takes a lot of time. It takes someone like Vince who mows, waters, and marks his own field, who repairs his own equipment, who sits at lunch and marks "x's" and "o's" on napkins, and who is already planning for next year.

It takes a group of coaches who work to coach as a team and, thus, teach teamwork by example. Winning takes a superintendent, like Father Ivan Vap, who physically did much of the building of the stadium and who personally reinforced the gym floor this past week.

Winning also comes from playing the best teams. The best lessons are learned from playing first class competition — whether we end up 10-0 or 0-10. At the same time, Vince Aldrich (as athletic director) feels a loyalty toward schools who have "stuck with us" over the years.

Winning also demands consistency. Our teams do not tend to be "rah-rah, jump-up-and-down" types. Teams that get way high can also get way low.

Last winter two local sports writers told me that our fans were too quiet. This year, this football championship has been met with outward quietness. I think, however, that this mellowness is part of what the coaches teach — being a champion means more than saying you're a champion.

Winning is a very personal feeling. I've seen it in Vince's misty eyes over the last year as he talks about the events and the kids. I can't imagine a greater personal feeling than seeing Artie Alsamit make the winning basket last March, after the crippling injury he suffered in football. Athletics certainly has its way of rewarding nice guys.

Winning also has other satisfying moments: having a basketball "botrowed" in the wake of a district championship returned when the kids found out that the referees might have to pay for it.

—Seeing the Vince Aldrich Thunderbolt Award (given to the senior boy and girl athlete who best represents the spirit of Pius X) given to the whole senior class at last year's athletic banquet.

—Watching some football-playing alumni especially savoring the victory over Omaha Gross this year.

Winning doesn't always have to be a serious subject. All I have to do is visit with some of the senior athletes as they discuss the "poor" junior who Vince and Don Kelley are "working on" to psych up for the next game.

Finally, I'd like to suggest that winning doesn't always mean coming out ahead in every game either. You are a winner when you work at it and take pride in your accomplishments.

Coach Kelley told me (I hope, facetiously) that we might be 0-22 in basketball this season, but he'll still teach his athletes to be winners. That's what I think athletics is all about. That's what I think Pius X High School is all about. That's why we strive to be "Class A — all the way!"

Red-White Tilt Opens Season

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano will use Tuesday night's Red-White intrasquad game to help him pick a starting lineup for the season opener Nov. 30 against South Dakota State.

Tipoff will be at 7:35 p.m. in the NU Coliseum.

Jerry Fort, all-Big Eight guard as a sophomore, will lead one unit which also will include Steve Willis, a junior college transfer guard, forwards Bob Siegel and Rickey Harris, and center Larry Cox.

The other unit will open with guards Eric Coard and Kent Reckewey, forwards Curt Hedberg and Phil Chambers, and center Ron Taylor.

At halftime, Cipriano will begin mixing up the units trying to decide on which group works best as a unit.

"Fort is worth the price of admission just to come and watch him play," Cipriano said. "He is one of the finest players ever to perform at Nebraska and has been the most consistent during our practices so far."

Cipriano describes Fort as "outstanding on offense, very difficult to cover one-on-one." The junior from Chicago has a variety of shots from outside and inside or he can drive for the basket.

"Jerry has improved so much over the summer by competing in those two tournaments," Cipriano said. "It's almost like he has had another year of experience."

Fort played in Yugoslavia with the Big Eight all-stars and then traveled with Nebraska on a tour of Italy.

The day's basketball activities will get underway at noon in the East Ballroom of the Cornhusker Hotel when the Lincoln Rotary Club will sponsor a Rebounders luncheon for the squad and coaching staff.

Fans are welcome to attend.

Lee, Thornton Big NU Concerns

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Injuries to Nebraska's No. 1 and No. 2 middle guards, John Lee and Willie Thornton, are big concerns to coach Tom Osborne as he begins the countdown to Saturday's Big Eight football battle with Oklahoma in Memorial Stadium.

"Middle guard is a crucial position against the Wishbone offense which Oklahoma runs," Osborne said at the weekly Extra Point Club luncheon Monday. "The first person you have to stop is the fullback and it could be tough to hang in there with Lee and Thornton out."

Osborne said Lee has a pinched nerve in his neck, an injury that could take two or three weeks or two days to heal. "He may start, then get hit just right again and be out of there."

Thornton has a bad ankle and knee problem and also is somewhat doubtful.

The Husker defensive coaches will be working this week

From News Wires

Kansas City — Give Kansas football Coach Don Fambrough a gold star.

Fambrough was the only Big Eight Conference coach Monday who would predict the winner in Saturday's game between top ranked Oklahoma and sixth ranked Nebraska.

After first declaring the battle a tossup, Fambrough reconsidered and said:

"I guess Oklahoma does have a little edge."

Fambrough said both clubs "are very similar defensively. They have size, and they're quick. Dave Humm is very important to Nebraska. If Humm is hot . . . he's got to have a hot day."

The coaches expressed their opinions by telephone during the Big Eight briefing session.

Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State sort of leaned toward an Oklahoma victory. So did Earle Bruce, the Iowa State boss.

"Oklahoma is a great football team," said Gibson, "and Nebraska is one of the finer teams in the country. Oklahoma is a super team and has more great players than Nebraska. If Oklahoma makes mistakes, Nebraska could win."

"I don't know that there's a team in the country that can touch Oklahoma," said Bruce. "If anybody can, it's Nebraska."

Coach Bill Mallory of Colorado

do said flatly he "wouldn't make any prediction" and added, "The game will be won by the team with the best defense. If Nebraska's defense doesn't do a good job, Oklahoma will run right up and down that football field."

Al Onofrio, the Missouri coach, asserted that "Nebraska has a team capable of stopping Oklahoma. It boils down to how effective Nebraska will be with their passing. It's difficult to go three or four yards at a time down the field often enough to beat Oklahoma."

Oklahoma State Coach Jim Stanley, whose club has yet to play undefeated Oklahoma, said, "It'll be close. Nebraska is at the fever pitch, and Oklahoma is at the fever pitch. It's one of those games either team can win."

Barry Switzer, the Sooner coach, said if Humm hadn't been injured, "Nebraska would be an undefeated team right now. Our defensive coaches think Nebraska's a better offensive team than they were last year."

"We won't have to spend any time trying to meet an emotional level," Switzer said. "Nebraska handles that, and Oklahoma handles it for Nebraska."

"Nebraska will be the best team we've played since we played them this time last year. But they're a better offensive football team than last year."

Switzer said the Huskers are improved because wingback Don Westbrook is the "closest thing they've had to Johnny Rodgers." Tony Davis is a bigger threat at fullback, I backs John O'Leary and Monte Anthony are big and fast and "of course David Humm is the most talented quarterback we'll face."

"I know this is a game they've pointed to ever since last year," Switzer said. "It certainly means a lot to them. It's a shame they lost the two ball games they did, but they lost both because they didn't have Humm. If they didn't, we'd have what we did in 1971."

Nebraska won the 1971 game and the national championship in a 35-31 thriller on national television that was called "the game of the century." Oklahoma won 17-14 the next year and the Sooners took it, 27-0, in 1973.

Nebraska has one loss in the conference, to Missouri, and could win a share of the title by defeating Oklahoma.

"Nebraska certainly is capable of beating Oklahoma, we know that," Switzer said.

The Sooner coach said Oklahoma will have to play without fumbles, interceptions and "silly penalties."

"We have to have the mental preparation," he said. "In a big ball game you don't have that many opportunities and when a chance comes you've got to take advantage of it. And the only way you can do that is to be prepared."

Of Humm, Switzer said, "We've got to make him throw off rhythm. We've got to get to him some. If he's able to hold the ball a long time it might be a long day."

"We've got to do something else," he added. "We've got to move the ball some, because we've got to allow our defense some time to rest, not put the pressure on them time after time."

Switzer said Nebraska is especially hard to prepare for because the Huskers are so well-balanced between the run and pass.

"It's certainly easier to call defenses when you know what they are going to do," he said. "Defensively, they are huge. They are much bigger than we are."

Reckewey Seeks Goal Of More Playing Time

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Kent Reckewey has accomplished half his individual goals at Nebraska. Now he has one basketball season to achieve the other goal.

The former standout at Lincoln East High School aimed for a high NU scholastic effort. He's studied hard for a perfect 4.0 grade average, which should guarantee him a medical school position.

But, as a basketball player for coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers, success has not been so noticeable. He's been used primarily in a reserve capacity for his sophomore and junior years.

Now Reckewey is a senior and that means things may change.

"After two years of apprenticeship on the bench, I'm ready to play," said the 6-4 senior guard. "The first couple of years I learned things and the trip to Europe (Nebraska's summer swing through Italy) gave me some playing experience."

"Sitting on the bench isn't really tough as such," he continued. "But it's kind of a defeat to yourself . . . it's like you feel you let yourself down. I guess if you sit on the bench you consider yourself somewhat of a failure."

After compiling a 19.8 scoring average with the 1971-72 Husker freshmen, Reckewey started three games as a sophomore. He averaged 7.2 points-per-game, including a 19-point production in a 72-58 victory over TCU.

As a junior, Reckewey saw action in 14 games last season, slipping to a 1.7 scoring average.

The view from the bench did produce positive results for Reckewey, who was a one-man show while guiding East to the 1971 state Class A title.

Therein, however, was one of Reckewey's big adjustment problems at Nebraska. At East, the team revolved around Kent Reckewey . . . at Nebraska, he had to revolve around the team.

"You learn to realize that you have to play the way the coaches want. You can't always do things the way you want to," he explained. "If you have a pattern of play you use, you have to realize that before you can play you have to adapt to the team."

"Originally it was tough (learning to play as a team member), but now it's not difficult," he added. "There are a lot of people in the world and you have to learn what you do best and fit into the system."

That's the way it is with the medical system, too.

Reckewey, who has applied to both the University of Nebraska medical school at Omaha and Creighton University, said he could know if he was accepted into either medical school anytime from December to February. If accepted, he will begin medical studies next July and "my summers of having fun will be over."

"When I came here (Nebraska) I got into pre-med and I spent a great deal of time studying. But it's been tough playing and studying," he said. "I'm proud of what I've done here."

"It's been really tough studying and practicing at the same time . . . especially on the road when it's hard to study and worry about playing a game, too. When you get back to Lincoln you not only have to catch up with what you've missed (scholastically) on the road, but you also have to practice every day."

Don't, however, construe that to mean that Reckewey hasn't been overjoyed with playing major collegiate basketball.

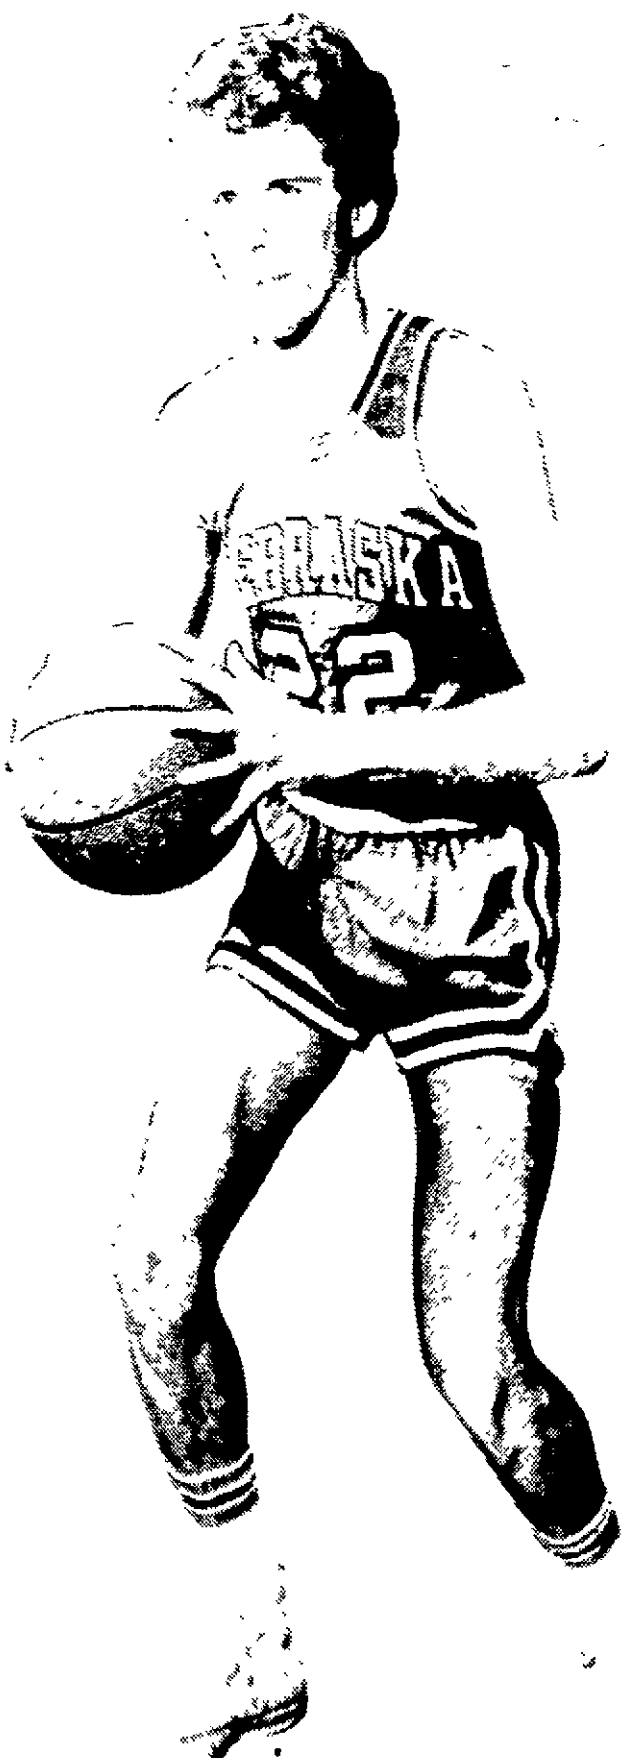

"It's (Huskers) been a great learning experience," he noted. "I've met a lot of people in the medical profession and I've enjoyed playing basketball. All the road trips and the trip to Europe were great."

Yet he can't help but notice a different atmosphere as he heads into his final season as a Husker.

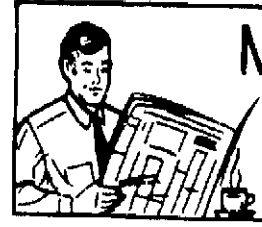

"I don't know why, but the leadership aspect is always strongest when you're a senior," he said. "It's a natural thing and I guess experience just does it."

"If I could just have one great year this year, that would turn everything around," he said.

It might just start Nebraskans recalling the Kent Reckewey of Lincoln East fame. Only this time, he'll be wearing a Nebraska uniform. And that's what's pleasing to Joe Cipriano.

KENT RECKEWY . . . Eyes good season.

Morning Briefing

A Roundup of Sports News

Kansas football coach Don Fambrough said of LeRoy Selmon, Big Eight defensive player of the week, "He could be the Big Eight defensive team of the week as far as I'm concerned."

Selmon won in a split vote over Kansas nose guard Mike Lemon. Other nominees for the honor were tackle Rick Howe of Iowa State, linebacker Gary Spani of Kansas State, linebacker Brent Robinson of Oklahoma State, tackle Troy Archer of Colorado, monsterman Steve Young of Missouri and linebacker Tom Rued of Nebraska.

Selmon led Oklahoma to a 45-14 victory over Kansas Saturday.

The Atlanta Falcons announced that Pat Sullivan, the seldom-used former Heisman Trophy winner, will start at quarterback next Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers.

The New England Patriots, staggering from three straight losses, said that top running back Sam Cunningham, leading receiver Reggie Rucker and flanker Steve Schubert will be lost for the remainder of the NFL season.

Cunningham fractured his leg last Sunday, while Rucker and Schubert reinjured their wrists and knee, respectively.

The Big Ten Athletic Directors have set down some rules for selection of a Rose Bowl representative. If Michigan clinches the title, the directors will vote by phone. If Ohio State wins, the directors will meet in the Chicago area, as they will also do should the teams tie for the Big Ten championship.

The World Football League's first regular season game came to a not-so-smooth conclusion last week and Florida's Tommy Reamon and Southern California's Tony Adams won the rushing and passing titles, respectively.

F. William "Bill" Doolittle resigned Monday after 11 years and a 58-48-2 record as head football coach at Western Michigan University.

Central College of Pella, Iowa, has accepted an invitation to play the University of Evansville, Ind., in the West Region semifinal game of the National Collegiate Division III football championship.

Center Bob Johnson will be out for the rest of the NFL season with a broken ankle, the Cincinnati Bengals reported.

Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach, hospitalized with an infected elbow, is expected to be released by Wednesday.

Missouri Valley, champion of the Heart of America Conference, has been named semifinalist in the NAIA District II football playoffs.

Michigan coach Bo Schembechler has been on probation this past year, part of a two-year probation for his outburst against Big Ten athletic directors' decision to send Ohio State to the 1973 Rose Bowl, a Detroit newspaper reports.

BASEBALL

Nicaragua defeated China 5-1 Sunday to tighten its grip of the lead at the 2nd Annual World Amateur Baseball Tournament.

The New York Mets assured themselves of at least a .500 record in their exhibition tour of Japan by rallying for a 9-5 victory over the Yomiuri Giants.

The 1974 minor league "Executives of the Year" awards, to be presented at the annual banquet during the winter meetings in New Orleans Dec. 24, included A. Ray Smith, Tulsa, American Association.

The House of Representatives voted to amend the Little League's federal charter to substitute "Young people" for "boys" in describing the goals of the organization. This, combined with expected approval from the Senate next week, will finally make it official that girls are allowed to play Little League baseball.

The St. Louis Cardinals announced the acquisition of shortstop Eddie Brinkman in a complicated trade involving the Detroit Tigers and the San Diego Padres.

BASKETBALL

The Philadelphia 76ers Monday asked waivers on center Walt Wesley, a nine-year veteran of the NBA.

Bill "Butch" Van Breda Kolff, who led the Los Angeles Lakers to two straight NBA finals, became the second head coach of the New Orleans Jazz in as many months.

A contract grievance that caused Norm Van Lier to miss the first 11 games of the season was turned down Monday by Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the NBA. Kennedy ruled that the Chicago Bulls had reason to impose fines on their guard for missed practices and pre-season games and could withhold same from his salary checks.

OTHER SPORTS

Center Bill Hogaboom, a former Omaha Knight, who broke a bone in his left leg during the Detroit Red Wings' 5-2 loss to Boston on Sunday, will be sidelined for six to eight weeks.

The Detroit Loves of the World Team Tennis have been purchased by a group of Indianapolis investors who will move the franchise to their city, it was announced.

American Nancy Gunter advanced to the third round of the South African Open Tennis Championships Monday, routing Karin Bosheff 6-0, 6-1. In men's play, unseeded Armistead Neely of the United States beat Colin Dowdswell 7-5, 6-3 in the fourth round and advanced to the tournament's quarter-finals.

Los Angeles Kings' goalie Rogie Vachon has been selected as Southern California's athlete of the month for October by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

World Boxing Association featherweight title challenger Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua was rocked by a solid right hand by sparring mate David Sotelo Sunday.

New Jersey's second highest court Monday turned down a move by Cherry Hill municipal officials to halt the start of winter racing at Garden State Park.

The American Motorcycle Association announced three dates for the American Indoor Championship series next year. Each carries a $3,000 purse and a $1,000 contribution toward the rider point fund.

Anatoly Karpov and Viktor Korchnoi played another draw Monday night in their world chess challengers final, reducing even more Korchnoi's slim chances to win.

DENVER (UPI) — Len Dawson threw for two touchdowns, including a 35-yarder to Otis Taylor on Kansas City's first possession of the second half, as the Chiefs exploded after Willie Lanier tackled Denver's Otis Armstrong in the end zone for a safety and knocked the Broncos out of playoff contention with a 42-34 victory Monday night.

Denver was leading 21-17 at the half, but on its second play of the third quarter, Armstrong was trapped for the safety. Kansas City took the ensuing free kick and marched 49 yards in five plays with Dawson hitting Taylor on a third-and-seven situation for the touchdown.

Kansas City then added a 17-yard touchdown run by Woody Green and a 35-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud, who also had a 41-yarder with 1:50 left in the first half, to take a 36-21 lead into the last quarter.

The Chiefs, who scored in the first half on a three-yard touchdown pass from Dawson to Ed Podolak and a two-yard Podolak dive, iced the game when Wendell Hayes ran one yard for a touchdown with 11:59 left.

Rookie fullback Jon Keyworth scored three times from one yard out in his first start for the Broncos and Charlie Johnson, who hit 28 of 42 passes for 445 yards, just two short of the Denver record, threw for touchdowns of 11 yards to Billy Van Heusen in the second quarter and four yards to Otto Stowe with 7:50 to play.

Despite the impressive statistics, the game was a disappointment for Johnson.

On the Broncos' first possession of the game, they moved from their own 34 to the Chiefs' 13 on three straight Johnson completions before Lanier picked off a Johnson pass at the goal line.

After Stenerud's first field goal, the Broncos were making a drive to score again before the half when Emmitt Thomas picked off a Johnson pass at the Chiefs' nine. Thomas also added another interception off sub quarterback John Hufnagel.

Lincoln YMCA Wins Meet

Hastings — Paced by four triple winners and eight double winners, the Lincoln Downtown YMCA took first place in the Nebraska YMCA Youth Swim League Triangular meet.

The Lincoln club piled up 877½ points, with the Hastings YMCA placing second with 663 and the Beatrice YMCA in third with 169½ points.

Omaha School Receives Honor

By Associated Press

Gov. J. James Exon's office Monday announced that Boyd Elementary School in Omaha has been selected to receive the President's Council on Physical Fitness in Sports 1974 champion award for the State of Nebraska.

The award is based upon the percentage of students who qualify for the President's youth fitness award administered at the end of the last school year. To receive the award, a student must score above the 85th percentile on a battery of seven strenuous physical tests.

Annual Lie Detector Tests Agreeable To Switzer

NEW YORK (AP) — Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said Monday he and his staff would agree to submit to annual lie detector tests in an effort to clean up college football recruiting, and he suggested all coaches do the same.

"You'd only have to answer a couple of questions for the lie detector and you'd have about 99 per cent of the recruiting problems covered," Switzer told The Associated Press by telephone from Norman, Okla. "All you'd have to ask each coach is, 'To your knowledge, have you, your assistants or any of your alumni ever offered any illegal inducement to a prospect?'"

"I'll do it, and all our coaches will. I'm not talking about digging up stuff from the past. I'm talking about 1974 — now and the future."

Switzer underwent a lie detector test in July, 1973, when a high school athlete charged him with recruiting violations. The test, administered by the Oklahoma attorney general's office, cleared Switzer of the charge.

"I'm serious about this lie detector thing," Switzer said. "I saved my neck last year because I couldn't disprove the charges. I was scared to death when I took it, even though I was innocent, but the test showed me the thing really works."

"They have a way of getting you to tell a lie while they're questioning you, and they can show you that you're not beating the machine."

Switzer said Coach Darrell Royal of arch-rival Texas agreed with him on the lie detector suggestion.

In Austin, Tex., Royal said he would "sure be in favor of it. It would stop all rumors and get to the facts."

But, he added: "You'd need to carry it even farther than just the coaches. Maybe four or five or 10 top kids off each team should take it. You might say that's not right having a young kid take it. But unless you get to them, you're not gonna stop illegal recruiting. They know what's legal and what's not legal."

"You should have three categories — alumni, student-athletes and coaches. And if an alumnus said, 'To hell with you, I'm not gonna take it, then he shouldn't be allowed to take part in recruiting."

Barry Switzer

Switzer also said he is convinced the Texas coach was not responsible for last January's action in which the American Football Coaches' Association voted not to consider teams on probation for the coaches' national championship.

Switzer also said he hoped Oklahoma backers would stop blaming Royal, an Oklahoma alumnus, for the action of the coaches' association, which also barred coaches of teams on probation from Coach of the Year honors.

Oklahoma is serving two years' probation for a recruiting violation in which a high school athlete's transcript was altered. Switzer, who was not involved in the case, was an assistant coach at the time.

"I had a long talk with Darrell last week," said Switzer, whose team is ranked No. 1 in the nation by The AP. "It was a good visit and we should have talked a long time ago. I'm convinced he didn't initiate the proposal, although he supported it in every way and spoke for it."

"All the trustees supported it. I would have supported it, too. The only thing I objected to was the timing of it, the fact they made it retroactive. We were already on probation when they passed it. But now I'm convinced it's something that was already on the agenda and wasn't aimed specifically at Oklahoma."

"It's unfortunate, but every time something happens to us, the people in Oklahoma blame Darrell. It's unfair to him."

City Pin Tourney Finalized

Men and women's city bowling tournament rules and regulations have been officially formalized.

The tourney will begin Feb. 1 and run through Feb. 9, with men's singles and doubles at Hollywood, men's teams at Parkway, women's singles and doubles at Plaza and women's teams at Bowl-Mor.

The biggest change comes in the women's portion of the tourney, where women's singles and doubles have been split into A and B divisions.

Cutoff for the divisions will be 145, with women having averages 145 and up in the A division, women 144 and down in the B division. Doubles cutoff will be 290 with women 289 and below in Class B.

Handicaps for the two divisions will be 75 per cent from 190 for A and 75 per cent from 170 for B. However all events will remain scratch, in one division.

Women's teams will continue to be split also, with 685 the cutoff. Thus, all women's teams with averages 686 and up will be Class A and teams averaging 685 and down will be Class B.

Team handicaps will be 75 per cent from 950 for A and 75 per cent from 850 for Class B.

Women's averages will be based on last year's highest average either as a regular or sub (sub's must bowl 21 games to be listed).

Men's handicaps will be 75 per cent from 200 for singles and doubles and 75 per cent of 1,000 for teams. A minimum will be set at 140 for singles and doubles and 700 for teams. Thus a bowler with a 130 average may enter the tourney but will have to take a 140 average to figure his handicap.

Last year's highest average will be used for the men unless this year's highest average is 10 pins better and then the current average will be counted. Cutoff date for averages will be Dec. 28.

Grand Island Y Tops Northeast

Grand Island — Despite a mass of first place finishes Sunday at the Grand Island YMCA, the Northeast Family YMCA dropped a dual swim meet to the hosts, 428-317.

Stuart Bohard and Bob Gustafson both turned in triple-winning performances for Northeast. Steve Stanard, Aaron Drake and Kathy Gustafson each took first in two events.

Huge: Sports Integral Part

Editor's Note: Lincoln East principal Jim Huge believes a state football championship affects the entire student body, even if the students are not directly involved. Huge is a former academic all-American split end at Nebraska. His views on the Spartan's state Class A championship follows.

By JIM HUGE

Before attempting to enumerate the effects that winning a state championship (whether it be football, gymnastics or volleyball) has on a school, I believe that a successful activities program is an integral part of the total school program.

It must be kept in proper perspective as only one component of the total program, but participation in a successful athletic program can be a vital ingredient in the total educational program of the young people who choose to participate.

Winning a state championship, or more precisely striving for attainment of that goal, has many very positive effects on a high school. First, it obviously contributes a great deal of excitement and spice to the routine of a student's day.

In a student body made up of individuals whose interests span a variety of activities, it is difficult to find many common goals. When an athletic team is in contention for a state championship, it gives one area of focus that the majority of the students are interested in, even though they may not be directly involved.

There are many individuals or groups who make a contribution to a successful football season. First and foremost are the coaches and players. They're the ones who put in long hours in the heat of August and the cold of November to prepare for those few minutes of game performance that you and I enjoy.

Secondly, parents make a real contribution by arranging meals around practice schedules and giving moral support when their son comes home bruised after a hard game or down because of a disappointing performance.

Third, the student body plays a large role through the various support groups such as cheerleaders, pep club and the band. These groups likewise put in many hours in addition to the performance of the night of the game. Beyond that, the total student body contributes to an intangible known as school spirit.

Jim Huge

School spirit and successful programs are sort of like a chicken and egg. A successful program helps build school spirit and school spirit helps build a successful program. Perhaps a better term than school spirit though would be school climate or learning environment.

Often times, school spirit is equated with just everybody in the school saying, "rah, rah," on a given night. In a broader sense, school spirit or school climate recognizes that not everyone is interested in the same thing to the same degree. Therefore, a healthy or supportive school climate would be one in which every individual student or a group of students can expect the support of the rest of the student body, faculty and parents as they strive to attain any worthwhile educational goal — whether that goal be the winning of the state football championship, the production of a good musical or excellence in any academic area.

An example of this occurred Saturday night at the East High production of "L'il Abner." Before the show, the members of the cast and audience were curious to know the results of the state girls volleyball championships in Scottsbluff.

So during intermission, I called to find out the results. While walking down the hall to give the news to the members of the cast, I was stopped by a group of our varsity football players, attending the musical. Upon hearing that East had won the volleyball championship, both this group of football players and the cast of the musical were almost as excited about this news as they were about the activities in which they were very directly involved.

All of us in Lincoln are fortunate that the students attending our five high schools and the community in general view school spirit as demonstrating support for your team and not being against the one you're playing. That's a subtle difference, but a very important one and it's helped to prevent or at least lessen some of the negative spinoffs that can occur from intense competition between schools.

Another group making a real contribution, but receiving very little recognition is the faculty and other school personnel. This support ranges from just plain attendance to volunteering to help film a game or practice, keeping statistics or in some cases, participation in pep club-sponsored special events such as Spirit Day and Clash Day. Participation in these events by faculty members, aides and members of the clerical staff lends strong support to the student body effort.

To me, one of the most important benefits derived from striving toward the attainment of a high goal is the kind of "living tools" or life attitudes that can be developed.

Beatrice Garbage Service Voluntary

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice — Beseiged with protests to mandatory garbage service, the Beatrice City Council relented Monday night and decided the pick-up service should be optional.
First voting down four attempts to advance an ordinance with the mandatory provision, the council then rejected all bids which were submitted Nov. 4. The action included a 5-3 vote not to accept a non-mandatory bid of $4.60 per month from Tiemann Construction Co. of Beatrice.

Lincoln Man's Condition Good

A Lincoln man was listed in good condition Monday at St. Elizabeth Hospital after a man allegedly struck him in the jaw with a tire iron early Sunday morning.
According to police, Jim Baker, 26, of 5535 S. 32nd, said the man struck him after he criticized the way the man had discussion at the latest meeting. Inviting opinions on the matter at their meeting two weeks ago, the council was deluged with letters and petitions.

City Clerk-Treasurer Terry Doyle said approximately 730 letters were received opposing mandatory collection, while only about 20 were in favor. There were also several petitions, mostly in opposition, including one carrying 1,176 protest signatures, presented by Councilman Doug Probst.
The council instructed City Atty. Steve Von Riesen to prepare bid specifications for the next meeting, this time on a non-mandatory basis only. Councilman Allen Grell led the argument to reject all previous bids, saying, "I think a lower bid is available." But councilman Bill Johnson argued that it was "ethically unsound" to rebid after initial bid figures had been disclosed.
On another matter, the council served notice that the removal of all parking from 6th St. (U.S. Highway 77) is under consideration. The possibility will be discussed at a special traffic committee meeting at 7 p.m. Dec. 4.
Noting that the proposal has been rejected several times in the past, chairman Harry Milke said he anticipated considerable opposition.
Mayor Bob Sargent said, however, that the State Roads Department would welcome a ban on parking.
The council also:
— Equalized special assessments on paving districts 262 and 263.

Jail Sentence Won't Reform Keane—Judge

Chicago (UPI) — Chicago Alderman Thomas Keane, a powerful ally of Mayor Richard J. Daley, was sentenced Monday to five years in prison and fined $27,000 plus court costs for his conviction on charges of conspiracy and mail fraud in a land-buying deal.
"The frailty exhibited by Thomas Keane was simply greed," U.S. District Judge Bernard Decker told a packed courtroom before imposing the sentence.
"I do not expect that any sentence imposed today will rehabilitate the defendant. . . . Mr. Keane is 69 years old, and his personality is pretty well formed," the judge said.

Toyota Output Up
Tokyo (AP) — Toyota Motor Co. said it produced 212,876 vehicles in October, up 4.5% from a year earlier.

Nichol Asks For Recount

Secretary of State Allen Beermann said Monday he had received an official request for a recount by William Nichol of Scottsbluff.
Nichol, chairman of the Scotts Bluff County Board of Commissioners, was an unsuccessful candidate for the 48th District legislative seat.
Nichol lost by three votes to former State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff. Carpenter was a write in candidate.
Beermann said Nichol's request for a recount has been received, and the $1,000 recount bond has been approved.
Beermann said notification of the impending recount has been mailed to all concerned, including Carpenter, and that he expected the recount to commence next Monday morning in Gering.
Beermann did not hazard a guess on how long the recount might take.

San Francisco — "It infuriates men that women are often right, but for the wrong reasons."

We went up to the Stanford Court hotel on Nob Hill the other evening to see Paul Bougenaux receive one of the highest awards for hotel excellence.

He accepted with pleasure: Half in French, half in English.

M. Bougenaux is general manager of the Plaza Athenee in Paris. When the company announced it would accept tour groups into this elegant hotel, the employees struck.

They paraded on the posh Avenue Montaigne. Ready to tear up the paving stones to stop this outrage. "They shall not pass!"

The owners surrendered. Bougenaux — then concierge — became manager. No tour groups. Fresh flowers go in every room every day: "We have five gardeners. We spend more on flowers than we do on electricity."

Steel Output Drops

New York (AP) — Domestic steel production during the first week of the national coal strike declined 1% to 2.75 million net tons last week from 2.78 million net tons the previous week, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

The Plaza Athenee caters to royalty and diplomats. Kings, queens and international jewel thieves have lived there. Mata Hari, the World War I spy mistress, was led from the Plaza Athenee to her prison death cell.

It is bright November. Party season. (At the Bougenaux affair they served champagne and caviar. Foie gras. Not pate de foie gras which is a paste of leftover goose liver. This was the block of solid liver. A truffle embedded in the rich center.

It's the social season. A man with a back like mine — limp shagheti — is lucky to survive. Nobody sits at these parties. You stand and stand.

"Therefore, though the best is bad, "Stand and do your best, my lad."

When Bougenaux and the employees of Plaza Athenee put down the franc-minded powers of progress, business picked up.

All over France, Frenchmen wept happy tears. They cried. "Vive Bougenaux! A bas les saboteurs de la bonne vie!"

Business has improved 10 times over. Employees share in the profits. Employees meet and vote on improvements. For example, they voted on buying new tea pots and what kind. (The best and most expensive won.)

We stand at cocktail parties because women stand. (Chivalry is not dead — even though Women's Lib has been kicking it around — but it has a hernia.)

I think women stand because they have stronger backs than we have. Look how much longer they live than men.

Conversations sparkled like the champagne. Though I stood four-square and full of squareface gin, having slipped the waiter a buck to hit the upstairs bar for me. I said to him "Don't put an olive in it."

(I kept the gin in a champagne glass so I shouldn't lose face.)

A lady came by just as I nipped a bite of caviar. She said: "Isn't this a lovely party? I mean you get to move around and meet everybody."

I gulped the caviar and said. "Ulp! Ulp! Splendid." I began to cough. She said: "You probably smoke too much. Shall I get you a glass of water?"

I said: "No thanks. Another glass of champagne will do it."

I gave the paid-off waiter the eye. He gave me a wink. He disappeared upstairs and came back with a filled glass.

He gave me another wink. I gave him another buck.

It was nectar. Pure ambrosia. A ramrod for the backbone.

"THE REPORTS OF OUR DEATH HAVE BEEN GREATLY EXAGGERATED"

— Mary Louise Smith
Republican National Party
(With apologies to Mark Twain)

Dear Fellow American:

Nearly a century ago, the newspapers carried — much to Mark Twain's surprise — an erroneous announcement of his untimely death. His classic response was, "The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated."

Today, only days after the election, there are those who are celebrating the death of the Republican Party. Let me assure you that they are just as wrong now as those newspapers then were!

It is true that the Party suffered some major election losses.

In Washington, the Democrats are free to pass legislation almost at whim. They now have a legislative headlock on the country!

Democracy is dependent upon opposition

I can think of nothing more dangerous to our form of government than the absolute control that the Democratic Party can now exercise in Washington. No free government can ever be dictated to by one Party line. When this occurs, true democracy ceases!

To preserve the checks and balances of our democratic form of government it is absolutely vital that there be an opposition Party, regardless of which Party happens to be in power!

And that is why it is so extremely important that you and I and all Americans who want to see the democratic system survive stand up now and tell the country loudly and clearly

The Republican Party is alive and well and fighting!

True, the Republican Party suffered severe losses at the polls, but the Party also elected 144 Congressmen, 11 Senators (leaders like Senator Dole and Senator Goldwater), and 6 Governors (Governor Rhodes of Ohio and Governor Milliken of Michigan), and hundreds of state legislators, local and county officials. Before the opposition seals our coffin, they should recognize that we have elected leaders at every level.

We may be at a disadvantage numerically in terms of elected office-holders, but I am confident the record over the next two years will demonstrate the dedication of our elected leaders, their human concern, and willingness to bite the bullet on the key issues of the day — particularly, the economic problems of unemployment and inflation.

But we must give these elected Republicans the support they need to accomplish their goals. That is why, right now, we must rise up and let all know that we intend to rebuild this Party, to learn from the past errors and to offer to the American people sound, positive, and workable alternatives to Democratic big spending, federally controlled solutions to all our national problems — all of which they've tried before.

Our alternatives will be problem solvers — based upon the basic principles of the Republican Party which have served this nation for over 100 years, namely:

1. The proper function of government is to do for the people those things that have to be done but cannot be done, or cannot be done as well, by individuals, and that the most effective government is a government closest to the people.

2. Good government is based upon the individual. Each person's ability, dignity, freedom and responsibility must be honored and recognized.
3. Free enterprise and the encouragement of individual initiative and incentive give this nation an economic system second to none.
4. Sound money management and fiscal responsibility.
5. Equal rights, equal justice and equal opportunity for all, regardless of race, creed, age, sex or national origin.
6. We must retain those principles of the past worth retaining, yet always be receptive to new ideas with an outlook broad enough to accommodate thoughtful change and varying points of view.
7. Americans value and should preserve their feeling of national strength and pride, and at the same time share with people everywhere a desire for peace, freedom and the extension of human rights throughout the world.

You can help right now!

If you believe, as I do, in these principles, you can help show the country that the Republican Party is not dead. I do not believe that the results of this election fairly reflect the true political makeup of the country.

Millions of Americans still believe that the principles upon which the Republican Party was built are best for America. Millions of Americans still believe in individual enterprise, in doing things for themselves, and in good honest hard work.

Millions of Americans are still opposed to bigger and bigger government, more and more laws, less and less freedom — and higher and higher taxes to support more and more government employees.

So I know the Republican Party still has grass roots support!

And I ask now, whether or not you are a Registered Republican, to stand up and be counted. You can do that simply by casting your ballot for the two-Party system; all you need do is fill in your name and address on the coupon below and mail it in today!

Let's show America that the Republican Party is not dead!

The Republican Party has an obligation to the country

Right now, we Republicans, Independents, and yes, Democrats too, have a duty to preserve the two-Party system! We must start, today, rebuilding the Republican Party if the Party is to remain viable — and if we are to win back the majority we once enjoyed. We must organize our opposition, so that the voters will have a chance in future elections to express themselves and to make their positions felt. Obviously, to do this, we cannot sit around feeling sorry for ourselves.

We must start now doing something positive!

Political parties survive or perish depending upon the support of the rank and file. If the Republican Party is deserted, it will die! If, as I believe, millions of Americans feel as I do that our Party represents their point of view, then we can join together and save the Party and help the country!

The first step is to be counted. Let the country know we're not dead by mailing in the coupon below. If we get enough people to do only that, it will give the Democrats (actually, for that matter — all Americans) something to think about.

The time to act is now!

The newspapers reported Mark Twain's death some seventy years ago — twenty years before it actually happened. I'm happy to tell you that the Republican Party is not yet dead, either! I know the Party will survive, if we have the determination to survive. I am calling on you to help me fulfill the promise of the Republican Party and confound the Democratic prophets of our death.

Won't you please stand up and be counted, by filling out the coupon below and mailing it back today, and if you possibly can, make a contribution as your investment in the Republican Party and the two party system.

The Republican Party is the "Party of the Open Door," so don't hesitate to get involved. There is nothing so satisfying in life as making a commitment to something good — something that will help preserve those aspects of American democracy we cherish so much — for future generations.

Become a part of our crusade. We'll welcome you with open arms.

Cordially — and thank you very much for helping the Republican Party to remain strong and effective.

Corrections Plans Emphasize Omaha

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln Monday said his legislative agreement with Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha on correctional reform includes construction of a new prison in Lincoln.

But the plan also calls for "special emphasis on community corrections programs in Omaha," Luedtke said.

"We want to get the most strength we can in the Legislature for correctional programs."

"And we want to avoid a conflict between Omaha and Lincoln."

Such a conflict has been one of the factors which has delayed construction of a new medium-minimum security prison of

Such a conflict has been one of the factors which has delayed construction of a new medium-minimum security prison to replace the old Men's Reformatory in Lincoln.

Cavanaugh and retiring Sen. Dave Stahmer of Omaha were among those who questioned whether such a facility should be located in Omaha instead of the Capital City.

"We're not so much interested in Lincoln or Omaha, as we are in the state," Luedtke said.

Since Omaha has most of the state's criminal offenders, he said, the agreement provides for designating Omaha as "sort of the pilot program" for community-based services.

"They will be mainly programmatic," Luedtke said, requiring little, if any, capital construction. Most of the needed facilities for such programs could be leased, he said.

Meanwhile, the state could proceed to replace the Reformatory in Lincoln with a modern facility, he said, as previously agreed to by Luedtke, the Legislature's Judiciary Committee and Gov. J. James Exon.

The Luedtke-Cavanaugh package will also include proposed reorganization of the Department of Correctional Services, Luedtke said, and might propose a plan for jail standards.

An accompanying appropriations rider will seek to provide the funds necessary to implement the program, he said.

No effort will be made this time to take the plan to the Appropriations Committee for a recommended level of funding, Luedtke said.

Twice in the past, the committee has declined to recommend any construction funds for the proposed new prison

Wounded Knee Jury Selection Is Under Way

Jury selection began Monday before U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom in the seventh Wounded Knee case to be heard in Lincoln.

On trial are three men, Manuel M. Alvarado, Newman Crowles Jr. and Terry Gene Williams. The three men are charged with breaking and entering a home on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

Also proceeding in Lincoln is the trial of two women who are charged with burglary of the Wounded Knee trading post and petit larceny. That case is being heard before U.S. District Judge Bruce Van Sickle of North Dakota.

W. Gerhold Sr. Of Columbus Dies in Phoenix

Columbus (AP) — Funeral services are pending for William Gerhold Sr., 80, of Columbus, who died Saturday in Phoenix, Ariz., where he was vacationing.

Mr. Gerhold founded the Gerhold Products Co. in 1922. The firm now has offices in Columbus, Fremont, Norfolk and York.

He was past president of the Columbus Savings and Loan Assn. and the Associated General Contractors of Nebraska.

Advice Deal Reached

Anne Campbell Said Investigated For 'High' Post

Anne M. Campbell, Nebraska state education commissioner-elect, is being considered for a position on the Commission on the Status of Women in Washington, D.C., according to a reliable source who wished to remain anonymous.

FBI agents, who have been conducting an investigation of Dr. Campbell, would reveal only that she is being considered "for a position of high trust."

Dr. Campbell, currently public affairs director for the University of Nebraska system, will begin her new duties as state education commissioner on Jan. 1, 1975.

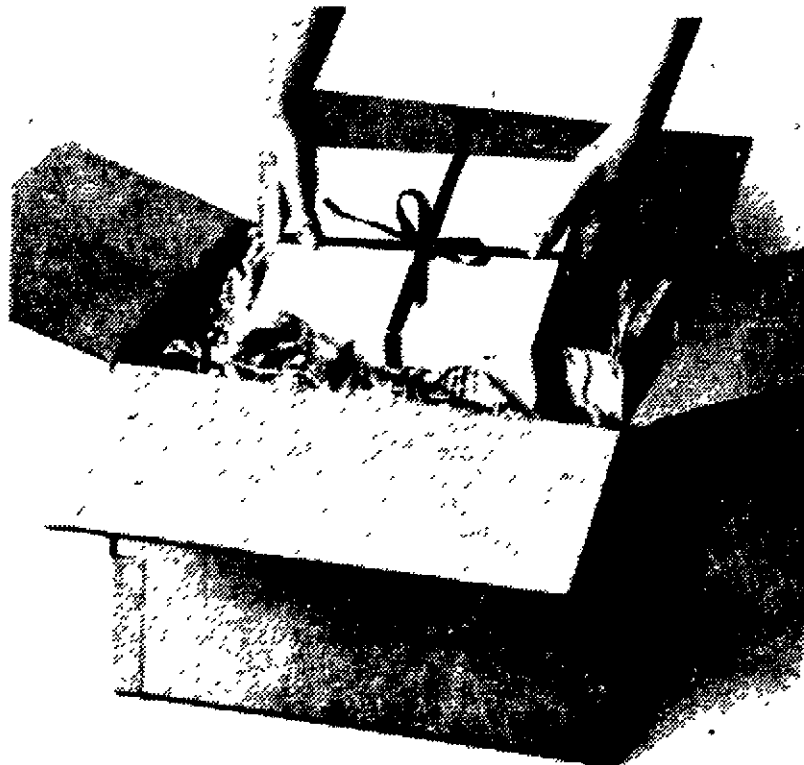

The source said that if Dr. Campbell is appointed to the national commission, it will in no way affect her position as head of Nebraska's public schools in the State Department of Education.

The non-paid commission appointment would not be a full-time job, the source said, and would require only attendance at commission meetings to advise on such topics as problems of equal opportunity for women and their status.

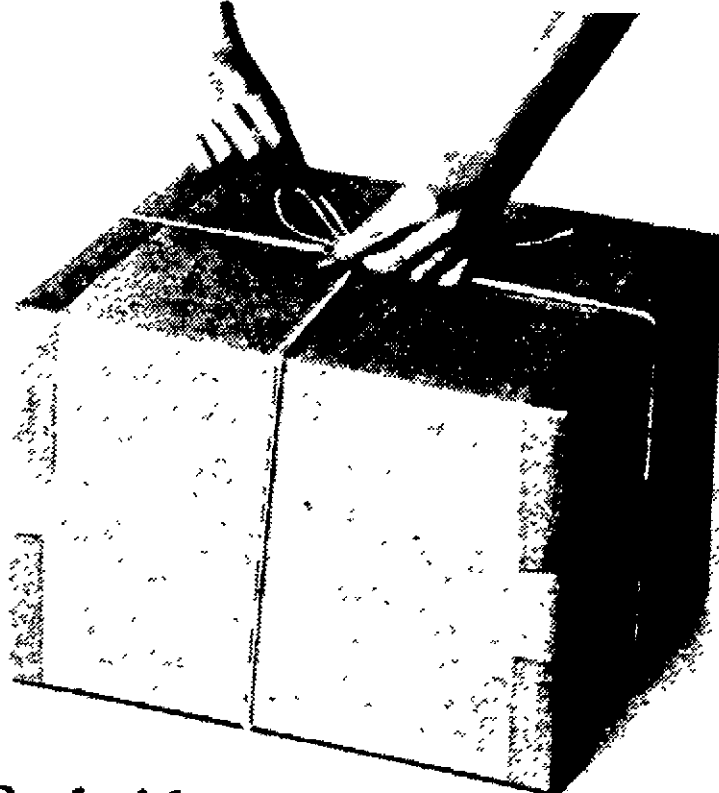

If it's worth 3 weeks to pick out that gift, it's worth 3 minutes to wrap it right.

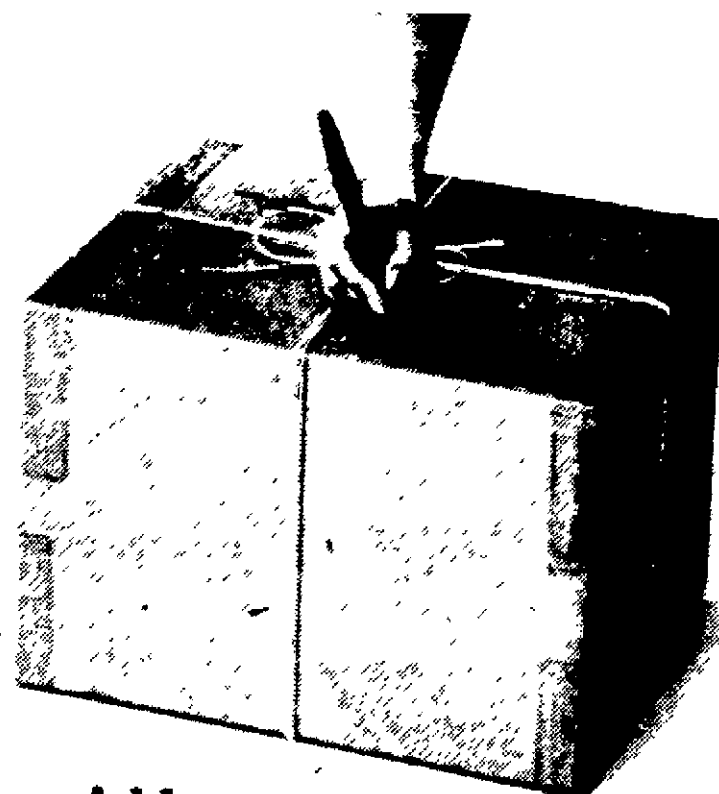

Wrap with enough padding to prevent damage.

Place in corrugated box.

Seal with tape and tie with twine.

Address on one side only.

When you send someone a present, you want them to receive it looking like a present. So they'll know you not only cared enough to take the trouble to pick out a gift. You also cared enough to make sure it arrived in the condition a gift should arrive.

Follow these steps:

1. First, make sure whatever you're mailing is well-cushioned so nothing is loose inside. (Yesterday's newspaper makes a good padding.)
2. Even if your gift is in a gift box, put it inside a sturdy corrugated box. (Make sure this is well-cushioned, too. More newspaper will do that.)
3. Put a slip of paper with the full address and your return address inside the corrugated box. Seal with tape and tie with twine. (That address inside the box is worth remembering because if the outside becomes unreadable, the Post Office will still know where to deliver the package.)
4. Write or print the destination address and your return address (both with Zip Codes) on the side of the package you put the postage.

In a real hurry?

When you need to send your gift in a real hurry, then send it Priority Mail—that's Parcel Post by air. That will get it anywhere in the country in just 2 or 3 days. And if the gift is valuable, be sure to have it insured.

You'll find that when you take a few minutes to wrap it securely, your gift should get where it's going still looking the way it did when you bought it at the store.

Ford Priority List Sent To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling for a "moratorium on partisanship" for the rest of 1974, President Ford sent Congress a list Monday of legislative priorities, including his 5% surtax and the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Ford indicated in a special message to the Congress that he was disappointed with its handling of his legislative program so far, but said "time remains for this Congress to finish its work with a real record of accomplishment."

Ford also said, "I am confident that if we all declare a moratorium on partisanship for the rest of 1974 we can still achieve much for America."

Highest on the list of priorities was approval of his nomination 13 weeks ago of Rockefeller as vice president. "I appreciate the need for a thorough examination of this nomination but it is in the highest national interest that I urge speedy confirmation," Ford said.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon of the Senate Rules Committee said his panel would vote on the Rockefeller nomination later this week.

Ford also defended his proposed 5% surtax on corporations and on persons with above-average incomes, calling it a "very progressive tax proposal" which exempts low-income taxpayers.

He said a family of four with $16,000 income would pay an additional tax of only $3, while the same size family with income of $50,000 would pay an additional $482.

In the energy area, Ford urged prompt enactment of the windfall profits tax on domestic oil producers and urged Congress to make permanent a 55-mile-per-hour speed limit on the nation's highways.

In addition to his legislative priorities, Ford also reported that he pocket-vetoed, or permitted to die, five bills while Congress was adjourned. But he said he would welcome new legislation to replace the vetoed measures.

He said they included two private relief measures and three legislative issues: National Wildlife Refuge System, farm labor contract legislation and Rehabilitation Act amendments.

Ford said he realized his vetoes during the congressional adjournment were controversial.

Students Celebrate School's Birthday

When Maude Rousseau celebrated "her" 10th birthday Monday, none of the 688 invited guests played hooky.

Cupcakes, Kool-Aid and a puppet show helped the elementary school students mark the 10th anniversary of their school's opening.

With the treats came a lesson on Maude Rousseau, the teacher for whom the school is named.

"We couldn't find any personal information on her," remarked Mrs. Louis Roper, who set out to prepare a biography on the educator who died in 1961 at the age of 81.

It took talks with some 14 people, she said, to paint a lively sketch of the school's namesake. The students learned that Miss Rousseau was a creative cook, and they were provided with her brownie recipe that was passed down by her friend Anna Zeman, who also has a school named after her.

If Canada Backs Off, U.S. Will Cut Quotas

Washington (UPI) — The United States is willing to drop its tough new quotas on imports of Canadian meat if Canada will back off from its restrictions on imports of U.S. cattle and beef, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Monday.

"We don't want to impose quotas; we want them to remove theirs," Butz told a news conference. "We're playing their game in their arena by their rules."

President Ford announced the new barriers to imports of Canadian cattle, hogs, beef and pork Saturday as an avowed effort to persuade Canada to remove the quotas it imposed last summer on American cattle and beef.

U.S. cattlemen estimate the Canadian cattle quotas will cost them about $100 million a year in lost revenue at a time when heavy supplies are causing economic distress in the U.S. cattle industry. Government sources said the U.S. counter-move has been designed to cost Canadians about the same amount in lost trade earnings.

Trade sources, however, noted that Canadian cattle prices are currently higher than those in the United States. The sources speculated this might weaken the pressure on Canada to dissolve the two-way import barriers in the near future.

The new U.S. quotas announced by Ford — backdated to last Aug. 12 — limit imports from Canada during the year ending next summer to 17,000 head of cattle compared with 365,000 head imported last year. The hog quota, however, was set at a more liberal 50,000 head compared with 88,000 last year.

GOP Post Sought By Sen. Curtis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska announced Monday his candidacy for chairman of the Senate Republican Conference.

The position as head of the conference comprising all Senate Republicans will become vacant in January through the retirement of Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H.

Curtis announced his bid for the chairmanship in a letter to all Republican senators, seeking their support.

The 69-year-old Nebraska lawyer has served in Congress since 1939. He was elected to his fourth six-year Senate term in 1972 after serving eight two-year terms in the House.

Identified with the conservative elements of the Republican Party, Curtis was floor manager for presidential candidate Barry Goldwater at the 1964 Republican National Convention.

Fire Damages Lemon Kitchen

A kitchen fire in the John L. Lemon home, 1411 Manatt, caused some smoke damage to the house and damaged a kitchen stove, the Lincoln Fire Department said.

Mrs. Lemon said her 13-year-old daughter "put some grease on the stove to cook some French fries and then left the room."

Pretty soon, she said, "We heard a noise that sounded like popcorn popping and we went in there (the kitchen) and it (the stove) was all in flames."

"We grabbed the top of the stove (it has a hood, she said) and carried it outside," she said, "but it was too late because it (the fire) had gotten into the vent."

Chill Wills' Wife Asking Divorce

Los Angeles (AP) — Chill Wills, 73, a leathery-faced character actor in 165 movies, is being sued for divorce by his wife of less than a year.

Novadeen Gogge Wills, 46, filed for divorce in Van Nuys Superior Court on Wednesday. They were married Dec. 7, 1973, in Las Vegas.

Her attorney, Gregory Politiski of Santa Ana, cited "irreconcilable differences" and asked for a division of community property based on "an ostensible marriage relationship since 1971."
